THE BLIGHT OF BUREAUCRACY

BY SAMUEL B. PETTINGILL

Democratic Representative in Congress for the Third Indiana District 1908-1938.

But the tide of bureaucracy is not only sweeping aside the rights of the citizens, as witness NLRB. It is an evil thing for other reasons:

Its cost; its throttling effect upon business; its damage to free elections, through its rapidly growing pay roll vote; its control over Congress whereby constitutional and representative government is rapidly, although subtly, being transformed into an administrative legislature, not elected by nor responsible to a free people.

Compared with $63,000 in January, 1933, there are now 933,000 persons in the executive branch of the federal government alone.

[Editor's Note: The total has now reached in excess of 1,023,000.]

This excludes all federal judges, marshals, and clerks; everyone connected with the army and navy; all persons on relief; all farmers drawing subsidy checks; all contractors working for Uncle Sam; and, of course, it excludes all employees of the 175,000 state, county, city, town and township governments which have the sovereign power to levy taxes.

All told, and for all governments, for 1937-38, there were 3,788,616 persons employed by government and paid with tax money, not counting WPA workers and farm subsidies.

As the Treasury reported in January, 1940, the total pay roll for these nearly four million employees alone is $3,506,874,000.

At three dependents to the worker we have here some 15,000,000 who are paid by the taxpayer. If all farmers in the nation gave up seventy per cent of all their crops to them this would be the equivalent in dollar cost of government pay-rolls.

For the fiscal year 1941, President Roosevelt estimates the cost of merely administering the regular government departments will be $952,239,610.

This is exclusive of relief, aids to agriculture, aids to youth and veterans, national defense, interest on the debt, public works, social security and the expense of administering them.

But their cost of nearly one billion dollars is only part of the bill. For example, the Central Statistical Board has reported that in a single year 135,700,000 federal forms, questionnaires and returns were filed.

Farmers filed 21,000,000 of these, averaging three each farm per year, and 60,000,000 were filed by industry, finance, commerce, trade, averaging twenty a year by each person or company required to file.

This, of course, does not include returns made to forty-eight states and 3,000 counties. One company, by no means the largest, filed 34,000 tax returns alone in a single year, averaging more than 100 each working day.

The 60,000,000 forms filed by business asked an average of sixty-five questions each, or nearly four billion questions in all. Small retail stores filed ten returns a year, averaging fifty questions. Automobile companies filed 250 returns a year, and railroad companies 1,000 annually or three each working day. These figures refer only to the federal government. They help to explain the tired business man.

The cost in the value of the time of executives, the hire of clerks, typists, accountants, engineers, appraisers, lawyers, as well as office rent and adding machines to fill out these 135,700,000 federal forms annually is staggering.

For example, railroads must make returns to eleven different federal agencies, water carriers to fourteen, food manufacturers to nineteen, retail merchants to seventeen.

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Germans Again Bomb London Day and Night

Residential Area Hard Hit and an Apartment House Sustains Damage

Deanery of Canterbury Cathedral Struck by Bombs in Daylight; Church Itself Escapes

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 18 (Friday) — Long, uneasy lulls between the boom of bombs and the blast of anti-aircraft fire early today marked the forty-first consecutive overnight German air attack on London.

The raiders, who had come over in mass flights through the day Thursday, stabbed at the city by dark in small groups or singly.

Air-ward Brions, however, anticipated heavier onslaughts, later in the morning.

Reaching up for the Nazis, the British "Ack Ack" guns at times fired with a crashing roll that echoed through the deserted streets. Five German bombs fell in one residential area, one of them hitting an apartment house under reconstruction. In another area a bomb smashed a water main and rendered houses uninhabitable.

Four Houses Destroyed
Another destroyed four houses and trapped some residents under debris.

The daylight raids, setting off five alarms in the capital, lengthened the roster of civilian dead.

The deanery of Canterbury cathedral, ancient home of British religious tradition, was damaged by bombs in an afternoon raid; but the old church itself as the ministry of home security put it, "happily suffered no harm." Only last week, its substitute windows, put in at the beginning of the war to replace priceless stained glass, were smashed.

The Germans appeared tonight in the familiar setting, coming in very high to feel their way through.

Dewey Says FDR Is Terrified by Failure in Office

Declares It Is Desperately Dangerous To Continue the New Deal

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17 (AP)—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York city declared tonight that President Roosevelt was crying for "speed and more speed" in national defense "to make up for the lack of foresight and the tragic blunders."

"In the last three months," he said in an address prepared for a Republican rally, "the New Deal has made the most complete about-face in American political history."

"Terrified by the results of its own policies, but never admitting it," he said.

Swing to Willkie Gaining Ground, Sam Pryor Says

Party Lines Disappearing, Eastern GOP Manager Declares

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Party lines are disappearing in the current presidential campaign and people from all walks of life are flocking to the support of Wendell L. Willkie, Samuel F. Pryor, Jr., eastern manager for the Republican presidential nominee, said today.

"There has been a great political awakening in this country since Willkie's nomination," Pryor said at his regular press conference, "and the feeling for him cuts across party lines."

Pryor said that for the first time in seven years, the New Deal was meeting with formidable opposition to its "propaganda" outlets in Washington and that the people now were hearing the "true story" from the Republican candidate.

Pryor criticized President Roosevelt for what he termed his political defense tours and charged that the West Machine Tool Co. at West Homestead, Pa., lost a day and a half of productive work on national defense orders by the president's "fourteen minute visit" there last week.

"If the Connecticut trip is the same," he said, commenting on reports that Mr. Roosevelt might make a New England trip, "I say it is not worth the taxpayer's money. Nothing is gained in terms of national defense by such visits."

Holt Scores New Deal Far Eastern Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17 (AP)—Senator Holt (D-W.Va.) asserted tonight that the administration was pursuing "a war-like policy" in the far east, and charged that as long as two years ago "were having secret understandings" with Great Britain to oppose Japan.

"If you have a son of military age," he told a radio audience (NBC), "you had better secure an atlas to find out where Malacca, Kedah, Pehang, Johore or Rangoon are located. It is very likely that your son will be sent to any of those places x x x."

"The secrecy by which the parallel action of the United States and Great Britain has been continued would shock anyone who believed in open covenants openly arrived at."

Again Attacks Kiel

It followed the same pattern of night assaults a few hours earlier on the German naval base at Kiel, where fires were said to have sprung up, and on the ports of Hamburg, Bremen and Cuxhaven — both bombed many times before.

Hit, too, the British said, was another favorite target of many a (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Phil Strong Favors Willkie's Record

Phil Strong: "I am for Wendell L. Willkie because, on his record, I believe he could speed our unparagonably belated and presently stumbling armament program; more importantly because of the danger of destroying an American tradition and democratic safeguard for a man who has shown himself increasingly arbitrary and self-sufficient."

Germany Boasts Of Air Defense Used by Planes

Super-Searchlight Said To Blind and Confuse Enemies

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—Germany boasted a new air defense weapon—a super searchlight to blind nocturnal British flyers—while reports of havoc wrought by the incessant bombardment of England piled up tonight.

D.N.B. official German news agency, claimed for the light a sort of candle-and-moth attraction.

So blinding are its rays, DNB said, that the light seems to make an attacking plane fly directly into it.

Emil Hurja Sure Willkie Will Win the Election by a Landslide

Democrat Who Gave Landon Two States in 1936 Confident He Is Right in 1940 Prediction

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Emil Hurja, former political analyst for the Democratic National Committee under the regime of James A. Farley, predicted before business men boosting the candidacy of Wendell L. Willkie here that the Republican candidate would be elected, possibly by a majority of landslide proportions. In 1936 Mr. Hurja forecast that President Roosevelt would carry all but two states. He said today that Mr. Willkie would win on Nov. 5 by a majority of 2,500,000 to 3,000,000, adding that he had "a hunch that he will win by 5,000,000 to 8,000,000."

Hurja Is Publisher

Mr. Hurja, who is publisher of "The Pathfinder" magazine, was a former Wall Street analyst. His ability for analyzing political trends made him Mr. Farley's right-hand man in 1932 and in 1934 he was placed on the Democratic National Committee pay roll at a salary of (Continued on Page Sixteen)

Labor Squads Held Ready To Make Repairs If Japs Attack

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—The British Corporation, in a broadcast picked up here by NBC, said tonight that the first contingent of 300 trucks over the Burma Road reported to have arrived in Kunming, the capital of Yunnan province after an "eventful" journey.

By The Associated Press
CHUNGKING, Oct. 18 (Friday)—China's trucks of war are rolling again on the Burma Road under the threat of imminent Japanese bombardment.

At the stroke of midnight traffic was resumed across the border with British-controlled Burma after a three-month closure by the British in a futile appeasement gesture toward Japan.

Instead of using the three months to seek a settlement of the three-year old China war—or "China incident" as the Japanese call it—Japan won, with pressure on French Indo-China, closer bases for an aerial offensive against China and the great highway itself.

Nice Charges FDR Seeks To Benefit By War Hysteria

Republican Candidate for Senate Pins Faith in "Thinking People"

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17 (AP)—Former Governor Harry W. Nice asserted tonight the present national administration was attempting "to take advantage of the awful catastrophe of war" in seeking to "break the solemn and inviolate tradition against a third term."

Nice, Republican nominee for the U. S. Senate, said in a broadcast campaign speech he did not believe the "thinking people" of the nation would be diverted from "fundamental" campaign issues by war hysteria which many fear is being created for political purposes.

"I think the overwhelming majority of the American nation agrees with me... that short of interfering with national defense, we should help England by extending to her, short of manpower and without involving ourselves in the war, every material help possible," he continued.

Would Observe Law
"But this (should) be done in strict accordance with the law of the land, and not entirely through the whim and caprice of any one man... We are not in this war as yet and no one must be permitted to lead us into war."

He asserted "Democratic orators, especially my distinguished opponent, Senator Radcliffe" would "have you almost believe" the nation was at war.

"Senator Radcliffe talks about not swapping leaders while crossing the stream," Nice said. "He speaks of (Continued on Page Sixteen)"

Axis Told Turkey Is Not Like Other Conquered Nations

Radio Sounds Warning Not To Attempt Drive To Egypt

By The Associated Press
ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 17.—The official Turkish radio said in a broadcast tonight that if the Axis powers attempt to drive through Turkey or Greece to Egypt and the Suez they will find that Turkey "resembles neither Holland, Belgium nor France."

The commentator accused Germany and Italy of trying to conquer Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Greece by various methods and said they had demanded that Greece give up her British guarantee or "she will be made to regret it."

Premier-Dictator John Metaxas of Greece received the German and Italian ministers at Athens today, the broadcast said, but failed to say what happened.

Commenting on the movement of German troops into Rumania, it asserted: "In case of an Italian attack upon Greece, in which Bulgaria might later join, Germany may wish to have a strategic point of advance from which to check a Russian move."

Finally, it may be planned to get to Egypt and the Suez through Greece and Turkey. This last possibility seems to us far-fetched because it is extremely difficult.

"Our resistance in the Dardanelles in the last war is recalled and there is no doubt our resistance this time will be even stronger, x x x."

In view of Turkey's defiant stand, considerable significance was seen in a conference planned here shortly by British Balkan diplomats with Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, ambassador to Turkey, their host.

The British minister to Bulgaria, already is here and envoys from Yugoslavia and Greece are on the way, respectively.

Declares He Will Not Permit American Youths To Fight on Foreign Soil

"If You Elect Me President, I Will Not Send Them Over; I Believe if You Re-Elect the Third Term Candidate, They Will Be Sent" He Tells Cheering Thousands at St. Louis

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 17 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, declaring that American soldiers should not be sent to Europe again, expressed the opinion tonight that "if you re-elect the third term candidate, they will be sent."

Addressing a cheering crowd which filled the 20,000 seats in the St. Louis arena, Willkie revised a portion of his text to declare:

"We can say with the utmost confidence, standing here in the center of America, we do not want to send our boys over there again. We cannot and we must not undertake to maintain by arms the peace of Europe."

"If you elect me president, I will not send them over, by the same token, I believe that if you re-elect the third term candidate, they will be sent."

The Republican presidential nominee also argued that "production is the road to peace" and said that "we must produce more and more and more" in order to aid Great Britain.

Before beginning his prepared address, Willkie brought cheers from the crowd by declaring that he had "ended two of the most ridiculous poses ever assumed on or off the American stage — the third term draft and the make believe military inspection trip."

He said in an extemporaneous statement that Chairman Edward J. Flynn of the Democratic National Committee had announced that President Roosevelt would make five political speeches.

"Now since the third term candidate is shown in his true role," Willkie said, "I would like to ask him three questions:

Asks Three Questions

"First, if he won't discuss a third term, what does he think about a fourth term?"

"Second, is he negotiating any secret pacts with foreign countries about which the people do not know?"

"And third, I would like to see the third term candidate justify for himself the support of three of the most corrupt political machines in the world — namely, Chicago, Jersey City and the Bronx."

Then, turning to his prepared talk, Willkie said he agreed with "many of the basic international objectives of this administration at the present time. But he asserted, the administration has contributed to war rather than to peace by failing to view production as the American role in world affairs."

"War is not the road to peace," he said. "Appasement is not the road to peace. Production is the road to peace — and the only road to peace."

Describing Britain as "the rim of freedom far out beyond our shores," the Republican presidential nominee said the United States could not send an expeditionary force over there because "we have no such force."

Not Helping in Right Way
"We are not helping the way we ought to help the way we must help," he said. "If we are not to be (Continued on Page Two)"

British Bombers Attack Germans At Brest and Other Coast Points

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 17.—British bombers knifed through a soupy fog tonight to smash at the French "invasion coast" with a heavy bombardment that shook the Kentish shore on this side of the channel.

The detonations rumbled across the channel like the steady roll of thunder. A light southeasterly wind was blowing across the calm channel waters during the attack.

The Germans opened up early in the night with a bombardment of their own, from coastal batteries in the Dunkerque area.

In a rarely accomplished broad daylight raid, British pilots were declared to have heavily bombed the Nazi-held French naval base of Brest today, and from the Dover coast, England's big guns made the channel unsafe for German craft.

London To Keep On Being Seat Of Government Evacuation of Capital Will Not Be Ordered for the Present

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Britain's government is staying in London, informed parliamentary sources disclosed today and is not yet ready to order compulsory evacuation of the bomb-strafed capital.

The same sources, however, conveyed anew the government's desire that "the more people who can leave London without interfering with their business the better," and, in the House of Commons, the minister of health disclosed an "omniscient increase" in the wartime spread of cerebro-spinal fever.

Malcolm MacDonald, the minister, said gravely that this "should make us pause in contemplation of the coming winter."

Cerebro-spinal fever is cerebro-spinal meningitis, also called camp fever. It has been a common military disease. The precise cause of the rise in wartime is not known, but it is presumed to come from crowding, such as in air raid shelters and in other intimate contact.

Government Determined

No reason was given for the semi-official reiteration of the government's determination to stay in London on this forty-first day of unbroken air siege. The parliamentary correspondent of Reuters, the British news agency, merely wrote: "There is no question of the government leaving London. On the contrary, they intend to stay here."

He added: "There is no question of any compulsory evacuation at present."

The board of trade which corresponds to the United States department of commerce, announced later that its office for the registration of business names had moved to the Grand Hotel at Llandudno, Wales.

Expectant Mothers Leaving
MacDonald in Commons also disclosed that about 485,000 school children slightly more than half the school population, now are out of London, and that 500 expectant mothers are leaving the city every week.

Elsewhere on the home front, Prime Minister Winston Churchill had United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy a cheery goodbye. Kennedy leaves next week for consultations in Washington.

Churchill introduced a House of Commons bill to extend the life of the present Parliament, which normally would expire next month.

He also suspended Robert Boothby, London financier, as parliamentary secretary of the food ministry, at Boothby's own request, so a parliamentary committee may investigate Boothby's connection with the payment of claims out of Czech assets in Britain. Boothby headed a committee to obtain payment of the claims, and Churchill said the government had evidence that the financier had a financial interest in one large claim, contrary to statements he is supposed to have made to a former chancellor of the exchequer.

Shrout Knocked Out By Aicher in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Charles Burley, 136, Pittsburgh negro, easily outpointed Eddie Pierce, 137, of New Jersey tonight in a ten round bout, almost knocking out his opponent in the ninth stanza.

John Aicher, 136, Sharon, Pa., knocked out Jack Shrout, 137, Cumberland, Md., in the second of their six round fight. Bruno Tretter, 144, Pittsburgh, defeated Bobby Riley, 140, Newark, (6).

Germany Boasts

German defense positions and anti-aircraft guns.

The light was used successfully last night against a British bomber over the Dutch coast, the agency declared, and it was shot down in flames.

The high command's review said German bombers, flying in unfavorable weather, hit London "full force" last night with "retaliatory attacks" in which the resulting fires "lighted the night sky."

Continuing the assault in daylight, German planes struck again and again at London. Nazi sources said.

The German radio broadcast an account of a forenoon bombardment which returning airmen said sent huge jets of flame into the sky northwest of Waterloo bridge and caused "extensive conflagrations" north and south of the Royal Albert docks.

Aside from London, Germany's night raiders made an "especially successful" attack on an airport south of Liverpool and hit other places, including industrial Birmingham.

The high command dismissed British night raids on Germany with "no military damage," but said that in many cities residential sections were hit, particularly Kiel where Germany has a big naval base.

In the war at sea, Germany reported submarine sinking of three armed steamers totaling 21,000 tons, repulse by shore batteries of British ships trying to raid the western French coast and the blasting of a British submarine in the English channel by a Siltka bomber.

New Deal Worse Than Dust Storms On Farmers, Sen. McNary Asserts

Republican Candidate for Vice President Speaks
in Oklahoma

ENID, Okla., Oct. 16.—(AP)—Senator Charles L. McNary swung into the southwest's former drought belt tonight and asserted New Deal policy had dispossessed more tenant farmers than "all the dust storms that ever blew up out of Arizona."

The Republican vice-presidential nominee said in a speech prepared for a party rally that a policy which permitted "big planters to pocket all the benefit payments" for cotton "cruelly drives thousands of tenants off the land."

"I have it on the word of a reliable informant," he said, "that 125,000 tenant farmers have been forced off the farms of Texas because of the New Deal's callous administration of the problem."

Henry A. Wallace, McNary's Democratic opponent, spoke here recently.

A large proportion of farm migrants in California, Colorado and Oregon, McNary continued, "were 'traced off' their farms by New Deal policies."

"A one-price policy," he declared, "which insists on allowing Liverpool to depress the price on American wheat and cotton consumed in America not only beggars the American producer but deprives him of his foreign markets."

Reciprocal trade treaties of the Roosevelt administration, McNary charged, "flattened out the beef market," permitting 750,000 head of beef cattle to be imported from Mexico and Canada.

74 Candidates Admitted to Bar

All Are Addressed by Attorney General Walsh,
Their Sponsor

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Attorney General William C. Walsh told seventy-four candidates for admission to the Maryland bar today that "there was never a time in the history of our country when sound leadership was more needed than it is today."

Before the young lawyers, including three women, were formally admitted to practice law in Maryland by the Court of Appeals, Walsh, who sponsored them, said:

"The difficult times in which we live have tended to weaken our allegiance to the fundamental principles on which this country was founded; to lessen our respect for law and authority; . . . and to lead us to believe that there is some easy way to acquire material prosperity and happiness."

"Both as a boy and as a young man, I always thought that America was a pretty good country, and I was taught that a large part of the country's greatness and prosperity was due to the observance by the government of the form of government established by the constitution and the energy, initiative and hard work of American citizens."

"I still believe these things, and in my opinion, you can make notable contribution to the future welfare of America and all its citizens by believing in the same things and by advocating these beliefs to the people of your respective communities."

Walsh moved that the young attorneys, who passed state examinations last June, be admitted to the bar and the motion was granted by Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond.

The women who were admitted were Nellie Marie Marshall and Emma S. Robertson, Baltimore, and Emma B. Waldrop, Silver Spring.

FDR, Jr., Sure His Dad Is Greatest Of All Presidents

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 17.—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. thinks his father is the greatest president the United States ever had.

Yes, of all time, young Roosevelt emphasized today upon his arrival here to address a meeting of young Democrats.

He has seen problems in America and done something about them," the 26-year-old son of the president said.

He expressed irritation with what he called "unfair" criticism of the recent army air corps captaincy given his brother, Elliott.

"Now there is something that gets me mad," Franklin Jr. exclaimed. "I think singling out a boy just because his father happens to be president of the United States is grossly unfair. There have been lots of commissions just like this. I think the army answered for him very well."

He apparently referred to the army's refusal to accept Elliott's resignation from the air corps.

German Ambassador Confers with Molotov

MOSCOW, Oct. 17.—(AP)—Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenburg, the German ambassador, visited the Kremlin tonight and is understood to have conferred with Premier-Foreign Minister Molotov.

Earlier today, diplomatic sources disclosed that the Turkish ambassador, Halid Akay, had seen Molotov on Tuesday.

Count Schulenburg only recently returned to Moscow from a leave in Germany.

Declares

left utterly alone in this bloody and barbarous world. x x x

"We must produce more and more and more. We must produce airplanes. We must produce hundreds of other things."

In that connection, Willkie said in a statement earlier in the day that the present "is no time for the third terms to play politics" with deliveries of war equipment to Great Britain.

Saying he had read reports that shipments to Great Britain were awaiting President Roosevelt's approval, the nominee added that he had read no details.

"If the dispatch of further materials is being considered by anyone in high office in Washington," he asked, "why is it not at this time submitted to the consideration of the representatives of all the people in Congress?" x x x

Sees Political Trick

"In view of the high places in the councils of New Dealers that are held by the unseen master minds and the city bosses, it is conceivable that there may be a wish to delay sending further materials in order to make a good impression at the right time for purely domestic political purposes."

"I have said before that I favor aiding Britain at some sacrifice to our own defense program," he said tonight, "but I want to point out here that it is a sacrifice, and that it is the New Deal's fault."

"In the history of the world there has never been such a huge production job as that which lies ahead of us. It surpasses what we attempted in the World War."

"International Issue"
"America has contributed to make the crisis in the world today. And the men responsible for that fact are the men of the third term party, who are now seeking reelection on the international issue."

The candidate asserted: "We can say with the utmost confidence, standing here in the center of America, we do not want to send our boys over there again. We can not and we must not undertake to maintain by arms the peace of Europe."

"But, my fellow Americans, these broad oceans are not supposed to be barriers. They ought to be broad highways of commerce and trade."

On Nov. 5, the nominee said, Americans should elect "a government that will make peace a reality, a government that will get things done to make them strong, a government that can turn to any dictator and say:

"This is America, and it is all on hand."

No Time for Politics

Willkie, in a statement issued as his special train crossed southern Illinois, declared today that "this is no time for the third terms to play politics with any possible deliveries of war supplies to Great Britain."

The Republican presidential nominee said he had read many reports that further shipments of materials for England await only the approval of President Roosevelt.

Asserting that he had "seen no denial from the administration," Willkie added that he wanted to know "what is holding up any effective aid it is now possible to give immediately."

He expressed the hope that "they (administration) can forget that they are New Dealers and can forget that they are candidates for a third term in Washington and act promptly and effectively at once. x x x

"It is conceivable that there may be a wish to delay sending further materials in order to make a good impression at the right time for purely domestic political purposes."

Asks Aid at Once

"That would be a reprehensible trifling with Britain's safety for the sake of an unworthy partisan political trick. If it is desirable for us to send any further aid now available, we should do so at once, within the limits of our laws."

"With Britain and democracy in peril, this is no time for the third terms to play politics with any possible deliveries of equipment which could serve not only to strengthen Britain but the hope of democracy over the world."

He started his heavy schedule with an address in the Evansville, Ind., baseball park, declaring that he wanted to revitalize domestic economy and develop standards of living that would make the existing one seem subnormal.

Eggs Thrown at Car

In Evansville, Willkie stopped his drive to the park to shake hands with a group of workmen who greeted him by beating pioushires with hammers outside a farm machinery factory. In the downtown section, two eggs were thrown at his car, but fell on the pavement nearby.

Willkie drove through St. Louis for an hour and a half amid a shower of confetti and paper streamers from throngs which lined the streets and jammed the windows of office buildings. He stood in his open car and waved repeatedly to the crowd.

Boquet after bouquet of flowers was tossed to Mrs. Willkie and she distributed some of them to women and children when her husband's motorcade reached the negro section of the city. There, Willkie addressed a crowd in the Gamble community center.

Dutch Ship "Gunned"

Many Jobs Open In Baltimore

War Industries Provide Openings for Many High School Boys

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—(AP)—New demands of war industries and special national defense projects, plus complications resulting from conscription, posed new headaches today for the state employment service.

Director David L. B. Fringer disclosed that, for the first time, the service is having difficulties finding enough male high school graduates to fill available jobs. During the week ended Oct. 11, the agency placed 119 male "juniors" many of them just out of high school and all without previous experience.

A number in this group have been placed in industrial plants at wages ranging from 40 to 50 cents hourly, Fringer said.

In addition, demand for experienced male and female stenographers, mechanical and civil engineers, and draughtsmen far exceeds supply, he continued.

Employers, fearing conscription of younger men, also have been specifying ages of thirty or above, he said, apparently reasoning men of that age would be more likely to have dependents and consequent exemptions.

So far as skilled workers are concerned, in national defense industries, there are virtually no age limits, however, Fringer noted. Employers are insisting upon rigid adherence to physical requirements but the able-bodied older man rates on par or ahead of younger men under present conditions.

He announced that the service made 4,295 placements throughout the state last month.

Police Superintendent Knows Where He Is

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Selective service draft registrars at one Lexington registration place told this one to day:

A registrant, when asked to name one person who always would know his address, replied: "Just put down Mr. Guy Maupion (police identification superintendent). He always knows where I is."

Bureau Predicts Business Gains

Sees Increase Coming from National Defense Spending

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics predicted today that American business and industrial activity in 1941, influenced largely by national defense spending, should expand to the extent of employing at least 2,000,000 more persons than in 1940.

Such an increase, when coupled with prospective enlargement of the armed forces under conscription, should, the bureau said, reduce the nation's unemployment rolls—which it placed at between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000—by about 2,500,000 persons.

These forecasts were contained in the bureau's annual outlook report on economic conditions for the year ahead.

The bureau explained that its forecasts were based on the defense program as now projected and upon the assumption that the European war would continue.

"If the international situation as it involves the United States should become much more acute, military expenditures in 1941 might be much greater, industrial activity would experience a greater increase, price changes might be greater, and the effects on farmers of these conditions would be greater and somewhat different than otherwise indicated."

The bureau said that a settlement of some of the world's present difficulties would, on the other hand, bring "a let down in tension and decelerate the industrial machine."

107-Year-Old Vet Dies

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 17.—(AP)—John N. Ridgley, 107-year-old Civil War veteran, died today.

A year ago he won a court fight to prevent his 78-year-old son, W. S. Ridgley, from being appointed his guardian and being given control over his $77,000 estate. The elder Ridgley contended his son was too old for the job.

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Joseph Kiawikowski, town of Carson farmer, accompanied his eight sons to the town hall yesterday to register them for military service. The youths ranged in age from 22 to 32.

Roosevelt Provides Million To Pay for a St. Lawrence Survey

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt assured Congress today that preliminary work on a hydro-electric project in the St. Lawrence river, for which he had authorized a $1,000,000 expenditure, involved no actual commitment to carry out the long-planned power and navigation development in cooperation with Canada.

In advising Congress of the financial allocation from a special defense fund, the president said, however, that it was urgent that the power project be undertaken because it formed "an essential part of the program of continental defense."

The president had announced the preliminary plans at a press conference earlier in the week and gave $100,000 as the amount allocated at that time.

The message to Congress said the preliminary investigations, which I have authorized involve no actual construction or commitment to construct," and added that "I wish to make it clear that Congress will be kept advised of such further steps as may be necessary."

To carry out the entire development, a new St. Lawrence treaty between the United States and Canada apparently would be necessary to replace one which was defeated in the Senate in 1934.

An executive order accompanying the message to Congress set up a defense fund, the president said, to direct the preliminary work, which involves investigation of the potential dam site in the international rapids section of core borings, test pits, soil analyses, land surveys and preparation of preliminary plans and specifications.

The president said the potential power at the site of the projected development was best adapted to meet the requirements of expansion in certain essential defense industries, including aluminum, magnesium, ferro-alloys, and chemicals.

Climatic factors at both ends of Britain's long battle line, from England to Egypt, are working in her favor as she braces to meet the winter strategy of her Axis foes. In western Europe, chilly October rains, admittedly hampering aerial warfare for both sides, gave bomb-blasted London a period of relative peace on Wednesday night, although the Germans returned to the attack later.

In Egypt the rains have come. During the next two months, it is not too little but too much water that is apt to complicate Italian hopes of cracking the British blockade at the Suez gateway. Moving mechanized war machines over soggy ground is perhaps a more difficult business than military operations in mid-day temperatures above the 120 degree mark. It may be that having waited this long to wave his army in Egypt on toward Alexandria, Mussolini will have to wait until the rainy season ends there.

Moreover, the weather and Britain's air fighters have virtually ruined Hitler's chances of invading England this year. Even Indian summer is almost over in western Europe and the war there is settling down for a winter horror of bomb terrors and starvation possibilities.

Nazi airmen went back to mass daylight bombing tactics to make up for the one-night lull that London enjoyed, the first in weeks. Their daylight reception, however, again emphasized that it is in the dark, not in daylight, that the air bomber can do his greatest damage.

That invites speculation as to which side will have the best weather to aid it during the winter of bombing for which both Britain and Germany are preparing by evacuating civilians from danger areas. The answer seems to be in Britain's favor.

Weather experts say that the atmosphere high over Germany probably will have a relatively low moisture content. The upper air strata over England, on the contrary, is heavy with moisture in winter, as it is through most of the rest of the year.

Moisture-laden upper air is dangerous for aircraft. It leads to icing of wings and upper surfaces.

Ice conditions at the upper levels could be a better protection in winter for London and most of England than guns or even British fighter planes. On that account, many another night of virtual cessation of Nazi air attack may lie ahead for Royal Air Force bombers.

But if the weather experts read their signs right, Berliners or other Germans will not enjoy as frequent spells of rest from Royal Air Force bombers.

McCormack's charges against the "Republican National Committee" and the various "Willkie" groups were made in a letter to the Senate committee. He enclosed what he said was a copy of an advertisement by an Englewood, Ill., bank which stated that "in a last stand for democracy every director and officer of this bank will cast his vote for Wendell Willkie."

The House Democratic leader said that the advertisement was part of a vast scheme to evade federal acts by "flooding the country with paid advertisements, ostensibly inserted by private interests, but in reality arranged and paid for by officials allied with the various financial groups, who unable to control President Roosevelt, are using the tremendous wealth to try and defeat him."

Chairman Gillette (D-Ia.) said that the Senate Committee would try to "determine whether the Willkie statement in the bank advertisement constituted a political contribution."

The statement appeared at the bottom of an advertisement on the condition of the First National Bank of Englewood, which was published in a Chicago newspaper (Tribune) October 10.

Gillette told reporters that the federal court practices act prohibited political contributions by national banks or corporations "under penalty of a $5,000 fine on the corporation and an additional penalty of $1,000 fine, or one year in prison, or both, for any officer or director approving the contribution."

But if the weather experts read their signs right, Berliners or other Germans will not enjoy as frequent spells of rest from Royal Air Force bombers.

he is a common man of the common people.

"We are for Willie," says the Tribune, "because . . . he has lived and worked in many states, and at many occupations. He was born a 'common' child of 'common' parents in a 'common' town and all his life has been in contact with us who are common people."

"He worked with his hands to buy his food and clothing and to educate himself, even as you and I did," it continues. "He is no politician, and thank God for that! He has a keen and practical mind, else he would not have risen so high on merit alone; and that talent is sorely needed by any chief executive of this nation. He surely is an honest man, upright in his dealings, for the utmost efforts of his opponents in this campaign have failed to unearth anything in his career to his serious discredit. . . ."

Summing up, the Tribune says "he is common; he is thoroughly and typically American; he has a constructive mind—a thinker and a doer; he cherishes no hates; he apparently has no personal vanity."

These reasons are well worth the consideration of laboring men and women everywhere, and no more so than right here in Cumberland.

Another Weighty Argument Against the Third Term

COGENT REASONS obtain in opposition to the third-term scheme other than that it would merely violate a long-established American tradition.

One of the most important of these is what the third term would do to the system of checks and balances so carefully placed by the founders of the republic as between the executive and judicial branches of the American form of government.

Within his term of office, President Roosevelt has named five of the nine members of the Supreme Court of the United States. It is well known to all that they were selected out of consideration of their political philosophy rather than for their legal attainments.

Of course, the right of the executive to fill vacancies on the supreme bench is to be conceded. The real point of the matter is, however, the appointment of a majority of the members of the highest tribunal in the land by a single president.

Under the law of expectancy, there may be two more appointments for the president to make during the next four years, and probably will be. Both Chief Justice Hughes and Justice McReynolds are getting along in years. Both have already reached the age when most men die.

Now, it never was intended that a single president should have control of the supreme court. Wherefore in this lies one of the very best arguments why there should be no third term, and why the presidential tenure should be limited by law.

When a Party Does The Deserting

MANY DEMOCRATS are supporting Willie. Some others would like to do so but don't like the idea of "leaving the party."

But, according to William H. Rodgers, Willie Democrat and former state senator of Pennsylvania, Democrats who support Willie "are not deserting the Democratic party."

Rodgers has explained why. "The Third Term party," he said, speaking at Pittsburgh, "spawned by New Dealers and big city bosses, who had control of the anything-but-Democratic convention in Chicago, deserted us. We are still Democrats and intend to remain so. Our support of Mr. Willie proves this assertion, because we believe Mr. Willie to be a practical liberal and the true Democratic candidate for the presidency."

Democrats who have qualms about "leaving their party" might well ponder that.

There has been a lifting of well-bred eyebrows at Mr. Day's remark that Son Elliott "accepted" a captaincy. This makes a complete reorientation of the case necessary, as everybody had supposed he landed it.

The straw vote boys have reconsidered and now appear to have decided they would rather be right than continue to pretend that Roosevelt will be re-elected president.

By observing No Third Term day on October 23, as Wendell Willkie has asked the nation to do, it may be unnecessary to observe No Fourth Term day four years hence.

New Dealers have stopped throwing eggs at Wendell Willkie, but have been unable to think up a new argument.

The more we read of what's happening to Europe, the bigger a hero Christopher Columbus appears to be.

Tree in Our Yard

By MARSHALL MASLIN

From the front window of our home I look out and see a tree. It is a small tree, not more than six feet tall, but it is not young . . . and has grown slowly.

Our tree is a cut leaf maple and its only product is beauty. The shade it makes is negligible. It bears no flowers, no fruit, no nuts. In the dead winter its leafless limbs have no great charm. It has quiet, delicate and unimposing beauty in the spring and summer when it is clothed only in leaves. But it is so small that no birds but the bushtit play about its branches; and even the neighborhood cats do not trouble to sharpen their claws on its small trunk.

But in the fall it comes to glory. Then all those delicate leaves turn to rich red. All eyes turn to it and even the children notice its beauty. Strangers come through the gate and up the path until they are opposite this small blaze of color stop and stare, and then continue to our front door—I think impressed by its glory.

I know it is a common thing to see a tree whose foliage is enriched by the sharpness of the autumn, and it is the conventional thing to admire that beauty. I have no belief, either, that our tree lives as we do, is proud, is arrogant, or even humble in its charm.

And yet our little tree is a friend of my heart. This lovely change is, for me, much more than the slowing down of life and this transformation from green to flaming red is not dreadful death. My tree, as I see it when I come home or through a window, is a flag flying in an arm flung boldly in salute to the beauty of the earth, and a challenge to any human spirit that falters in the battle and surreys quits when the need is greatest.

So I am grateful for this autumnal symbol of courage in our garden. And I think of it even when autumn has long since passed into the heart of winter.

Appeal to Class Hatred Is Flayed By Gen. Johnson

By HUGH S. JOHNSON

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Booming and hissing Mr. Willkie's earnest attempts to talk before he has said a word, throwing groceries and more dangerous weapons at him and his wife, falsely accusing him of religious and racial prejudice against the Jewish people and against Negroes, is all out of the same basket of Fourth New Deal methods.

The booming, hissing and throwing has largely been done by Communist elements in some of the more radical labor unions. The Fourth New Deal has consistently encouraged them. It has held itself out as the Negro's sole haven of refuge. Its principal strength among Jewish people lies not so much in very proper hostility to Hitler, which the whole country joins, as in its broadly hinted purpose to launch us into war against him—which eighty per cent of this country opposes. Considering fiendish atrocities of the Nazis against the Jews, it is only human that their kindred here should wish to see Hitler punished with arms—so would I, if I were a Jew—but the political nourishment of that wish is very bad business.

Can't Disown

It is all very well for the Fourth New Deal politics to disown responsibility for this obviously organized heckling. They can't disown it. Not only is it a direct result of their settled political policies over the years, but it is too consistently done to warrant a belief that it is not inspired. It is exactly like the sick undercover job against Al Smith in the 1928 campaign.

There is a sinister contradiction here that these racial and religious groups should not overlook. The Fourth New Deal's citadel of strength is the Solid South, the home and center of the very prejudices they fear; the remaining organized stronghold of the anti-semitic, anti-Negro, anti-Catholic Ku-Klux-Klan, a member of which was appointed by Mr. Roosevelt to the supreme court.

Promptly Repudiated

When the imitation Kluxer and anti-semitic Father Coughlin, hinted his approval of Mr. Willkie, he was promptly and scathingly rebuffed and repudiated by the candidate. Did anybody ever hear Mr. Roosevelt repudiate his great following of groups openly prejudiced against these races and religions? No, and nobody ever will. He couldn't be elected without them. In abusing Mr. Willkie, these abused people are supporting their tormentors.

These stunts and innuendo against Willkie are false. As all who know him will agree, he is the least biased of men. He has just one prejudice and it is fierce. It is a prejudice against prejudice and, as was shown in his denunciation of Father Coughlin, not scorn of any man who appeals to prejudice for political or any other purpose. If I were a Jew or a Negro, I would far rather rest my case with such a man than with a politician who is allied with one prejudice in one place and a contrary prejudice elsewhere.

Unity and Strength Needed

If there is one thing that this country cannot tolerate in this dangerous time, it is any appeal to class and group hatred of any kind. Disunity is weakness. We must be strong. All the people must be united and any president must be president of all the people.

The heart and center of the doctrine of Communism is class warfare. Boos, hisses, dirty or dangerous missiles—instead of arguments—incitement to class or religious or racial prejudices—instead of pleas for unity—are the acknowledged and principal weapons of Communism. Fourth New Dealers are properly not against Hitler, but not nearly so rabid against the Reds.

THE NON-POLITICAL INSPECTION TOUR

Third Term Query Is Flatly Evaded By Roosevelt at Press Conference

The Reds, just now, are our greatest danger, not because of their threats from abroad, like Hitler's, but because of their actual accomplishment to set classes against each other.—Distributed by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

Keeping the Record Straight

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

In response to the general indictment of New Deal management for spending billions of dollars for all sorts of public extravaganzas during the past few years while neglecting national defense, Senator Sheppard of Texas, charged recently that the Republican party really is responsible, because of an amendment to the $4,880,000,000 lend-lease bill of 1935, proposed by Republican senators, which prohibited use of the money for military or naval purposes.

Examination of the record discloses that this amendment actually was offered by Senator Thomas, D of Utah, a Democrat, and was adopted by a vote of 71 to 11 with the support of such highly placed New Dealers as Senator Barkley, Senator Byrnes and many others, while Senator McNary and some other Republicans voted against it.

As a matter of fact, Senator Barkley was most specific. "I don't want to see any of this money," he said, "used to build battleships or to open up any new army posts, or to buy tanks or tractors or any other military equipment."

That's clear enough, isn't it? Senator Barkley was the president's spokesman on the floor of the Senate. He spoke for Mr. Roosevelt. He was the administration representative. Does the record show that Mr. Roosevelt was alive to our defense needs as claimed and did his utmost to build an adequate defense, or that he neglected defense while spending billions for other things?

Senator Will Fight for Peace

Washington Planning To Go to War, Rush D. Holt Declares

Editor The Cumberland News:

I regret to say that the United States of America is closer to war today than at any time since 1917. There is an effort to "play down" the war danger at this time but Washington is planning—planning to go to war, planning to take the boys, planning to have "M. Day" I do not like the secrecy by which these moves are being made. I feel the fellows who have to die should know why. I feel the people of this country have a right to know.

This is no scare letter. My conscience will be clear when I tell you what I believe. I studied whether or not I should write this letter. I did not want to cause any alarm, but I just cannot sit back and say nothing when I see these things happen.

Right here I want to say that I hope I am wrong. I think our entrance in war would be a tragic mistake. It would not preserve the ideals for which we are supposed to fight. It would destroy them. Let us have billions for national defense but not one cent for involvement in the wars of Europe or Asia. Of course, I shall not be in the

By MARK SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—At President Roosevelt's press conference, Mr. Mervin H. Browne, of the Buffalo Evening News, asked a question. In advance, Mr. Browne explained, apologetically, that the question was long but that he thought Mr. Roosevelt might be interested to answer it. The question was:

"Mr. President, in your forthcoming political speeches, do you intend to answer charges made by your political opposition that you are seeking to become a dictator and that there will be nothing to prevent you, or others after you, from seeking additional terms of office if you are elected to a third term?"

Under the rules that govern these press conferences—rules laid down quite properly by the White House—the correspondents may quote any question that is asked, quote it literally within quotation marks, as above. But the President's answer must not be quoted unless he gives specific permission.

Quotations Requested

Occasionally, after Mr. Roosevelt has answered a question, someone will ask: "May we quote that, Mr. President?" If the correspondent seeking privilege of quotation is ingenious, he may put his request ingenuitously: "What you have said, Mr. President, is very quotable; won't you let us print it as you said it?"

On such occasions Mr. Roosevelt, after a moment of reflection to decide whether his own judgment about quotability coincides with the correspondent's—and also perhaps to decide whether quotation would be to his interest—often gives permission.

In such cases, the official stenographer is asked to repeat the president's answer, so that all the correspondents may take it down. Sometimes Mr. Roosevelt will slightly change the wording of his reply, so as to make it more clear, or less colloquial. Thereafter, what the president said appears in the newspapers as he said it, in quotation marks.

Limited to Description

But there was no such aftermath to the present question. It was plain from Mr. Roosevelt's expression as he listened that his reply, or comment or whatever, would not be one which he would wish quoted. So Mr. Roosevelt's response under the rules, could only be reproduced in what grammarians call "indirect discourse"; it could only be described.

In fact there was no reply that could be called a reply. Mr. Browne's hope that Mr. Roosevelt might be interested to answer his question turned out to be extravagantly over-optimistic. All that Mr. Roosevelt said was that the question was very interesting, that it had everything in it except the kitchen stove.

Accurately Mr. Roosevelt then turned

ed questioner himself. He asked Mr. Browne who had thought the question up. The implication, not infrequent in Mr. Roosevelt's attitudes in many situations, was that anyone who asked him an inconvenient question, or otherwise, introduced a marring note into the symphonic picture which Mr. Roosevelt prefers that the public should enjoy—eternally, that the question was long but that he thought Mr. Roosevelt might be interested to answer it. The question was:

However, Mr. Browne replied, "I did, Mr. President." Again, ironically, Mr. Roosevelt congratulated the questioner—it was a very interesting question, very deftly worded. Persistently, Mr. Browne asked, "Is there an answer, Mr. President?" Repeatedly Mr. Roosevelt reiterated—it was a very interesting question, very deftly worded, that was all of that.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Oct. 16. (P)—Carroll county Republican lead-

sentatives from Baltimore and nearby

Theodore F. Brown, second district congressional nominee, were principal speakers at the rally. Both had accompanied the caravan on the day's tour.

The caravan got underway at 8:30 this morning at Mt. Airy, Preceding the ten starting automo-

Byrnes Says Willkie Is Misleading

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (P)—Senator Byrnes (D-S.C.) said in a speech prepared for radio delivery here that Wendell L. Willkie had made a "misleading statement" in asserting that housing accommodations were insufficient to care for men drafted for military service.

Byrnes referred to a statement by Willkie at Rochester yesterday, in which the Republican presidential nominee accused the administration of "pitiful inefficiency in failing to provide housing for the first lot of new soldiers" coming in under the conscription program.

Byrnes said he was advised by General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, that housing construction was proceeding "surpris-

Former Jersey Governor Dies

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17. (P)—
George S. Sizler, former governor of New Jersey, collapsed on a Newark street Wednesday and was pronounced dead on arrival at City hospital.

Sizler, who was 70, maintained a law office in Newark. His term of governor was from January, 1923, to January, 1926. He was a Democrat.

Sizler came close to the Democratic nomination for vice president in 1924. Four states had seconded his name, but party leaders withdrew it for geographical reasons.

12-Year Old Boy Meets Tragic Death In Chesapeake Bay

ST. MICHAEL'S, Md., Oct. 17 (AP)—The tragic story of how a twelve-year-old boy died of exposure in the cold waters of Chesapeake Bay was told today by survivors of the Bug-eye wrecked in a violent storm off Poplar Island.

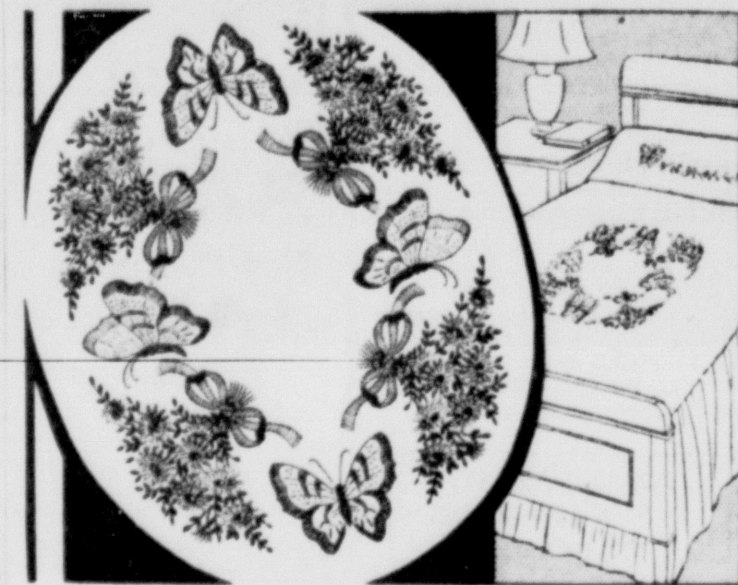

The boy was Charles Hignutt, grandson of Captain and Mrs. John Riggins of Claiborne who, with their son, Carleton Riggins, 15, were picked up today after clinging to the wreckage of their boat all night.

A fishing boat rescued them at noon, but help came too late for the grandson. Mrs. Riggins had held him up in her arms through the night, but the lad died of exposure and shock.

Captain Riggins said he had headed from Baltimore to Claiborne carrying a cargo of coal. Off Poplar Island, the storm struck and wind and waves gave the boat a terrific battering, finally swamping it, with a loss of everything aboard.

Plunging into the water, the little group clung to the rigging of the Bug-eye from 6:30 o'clock last night until noon today when the fishing boat hove on the scene.

Marge says the gadgets in her new faulged kitchen take so much of her time cleaning them she can't do half the cooking she did in her Ma's old-time kitchen.

Yep, people are always inventing new kinds o' gadgets. But I'm still waitin' for 'em to come out with a tea that'll match my LIPTON'S for real deep-down flavor an' grand fragrance. They'll have to go some!

Jane says there's one thing about dancin' with a fat person. Your toes are pretty safe.

Did you ever stop to thank your stars that even as fine a tea as LIPTON'S is cheaper'n anything you kin drink 'cept water?

The reason for Lipton's matchless flavor? 70 years of blending skill... combining choice teas (each selected for some distinctive quality) with those notable teas grown in Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.

Moral Standards

in fine language of the abundant life and social justice they were using methods that have brought point in our recollection. They began by promising to reduce the cost of the government by twenty-five per cent through cutting out boards and commissions. They promised to balance the budget every year. They promised to end government competition with business. They condemned the wrong use of money in political activities.

Offer No Defense

"Once in office they tore up these promises like scraps of paper. I don't need to remind you that the Roosevelt administration has done just the opposite in the case of these four promises. The president no longer attempts to defend his record of waste and extravagance. He just overlooks it and goes ahead inspecting national defenses.

"To me, this failure to do or even seriously try to do the things that were promised is one of the worst breaches of the moral standard. I was taught as a boy to consider my word as my bond. I cannot respect anyone who makes promises and goes back on them later.

"The New Dealers talk, and with justification in some cases, of crooked Wall street speculation. But in less than a year after going into office they were bragging about making two billion dollars by speculation in gold. They did it by devaluing the dollar, which meant paying the creditors of the government in money worth less than their agreement called for.

Are Deceiving People

"Time after time they have deceived the people about their real intentions. Old timers in Washington say this is the most secretive administration they can remember. Important actions are taken behind closed doors and announced after it's too late to do anything about them. Laws are passed with 'loopholes' in them, purposely written to fool somebody. The 60-year rent subsidy in the United States Housing Act was one of them. Our own Senator Tydings discovered it and succeeded in defeating a second appropriation for the same purpose.

"Their way is to get what they want by fair means or foul. When the Supreme Court killed some of the reform laws because they were unconstitutional a few honest New Dealers said, 'Let's have an amendment that will make them constitutional.' But that was too slow. A quicker way, they decided, was to pack the Supreme Court with enough New Deal stooges to outvote the others. That plan needed only to be passed by majority vote of Congress and wouldn't have to be referred to the states. Luckily for us, it failed by a slender margin.

Would Socialize Business

"I charge that for eight long years the New Deal politicians have been trying to stir up hate against business men, as a part of their scheme to socialize business and industry. I am told that is exactly the same course that was followed in Russia.

"Now, I ask you, do these things square with the moral standard that we expect of those who rule our affairs?

"Our opponents will say you must overlook these tricks because of the high objectives they are aiming at. I ask you this: Because a good Samaritan wants to help Paul, does that make it all right for him to rob Peter? Are we to excuse dirty politics and stuffed ballot boxes in the large cities because Mayor Hague, Boss Kelly and others of their stripe profess high ideals and talk about 'human rights above property rights'?

"Out in California a graduate-ing class of a high school published a school paper with a big headline across the front page reading 'WPA, here we come!' That, ladies and gentlemen, is the best clue I can give you to what the New Deal program is doing to the moral fibre of our younger generation. It must to go on.

"We are told that Hades is paved with good intentions and promises. Let's be realistic, folks, and decide this election on performance."

NOT THE RIGHT SPOT

THERE IS a right and a wrong spot for every artifice of the skilled cardman. Plays that are eminently correct in one situation are utterly out of order in another. This is especially so of the "Bath Coup," the old tricky hold-up of an ace when also holding the jack, which was supposedly first used in that cradling place of Whist, now in the hands of a non-bridge player named Adolph.

West attacked this contract with the heart K. South had just recently learned about the Bath Coup, so decided to try it. He played low on the lead, hoping thereby to get a repeat of the suit and therefore two tricks in it. But West didn't fall so easily. He switched to the spade Q, and four tricks in that suit beat the contract.

times for it are those when a switch to any other suit would help the declarer, or at least could not harm him. But this was not one of those times. To protect against danger in spades, he should have taken the opening lead with his heart A and then planned to finesse both diamonds and clubs toward East. From West's bid, it was pretty sure he had the threatening honor in each of his suits, in case he did not have the spade A. If he did have the spade A, then that suit was not so dangerous and would produce a trick.

As it turned out, this method of play would have furnished five tricks in diamonds, three in clubs and one in hearts, making the contract without a risk of having the spade K led through at once.

Navy To Enlist Experienced Men

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 17. (AP) — Navy recruiting stations in Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland were authorized here to accept under a special classification, officially known as V-6, the enlistment of trained and experienced men.

Lieut. Comdr. H. I. Sheritt, special recruiting officer here, said that the classification includes trained craftsmen in a number of trades, with the lowest pay rating to be equal to that of a first class seaman.

Special recruiting stations for enlistment of men under the classification in the fifth naval district have been authorized for Norfolk, Richmond, Charleston, W. Va., and Baltimore.

Amber is especially interesting from the curious fossil insects and vegetation found embedded in its transparent depths, caught in the gum as it flowed down tree trunks. It is estimated that these forms are some 60,000,000 years old—the oldest form of life on the planet.

Counter-Irritant Sometimes Helps In Love Tangle

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Feature Syndicate, Inc.

A young man from the chivalry belt—the Deep South, where men are courteous and girls are lovely—has carefully cut from the newspaper some direful happenings which have had their origin in desperate love affairs.

He asks the question, "Isn't love just craziness?" And concludes with "I think it's got me and I'm as crazy as any of those people who've wooed their girls with shotgun—the ladies have tried pistol marksmanship too; some have drowned the beloved, others have just bashed them in the head."

"And now, dear Miss Fairfax, I've felt like doing all these things myself at times when my girl treats me like the dirt under her feet, or when she says: 'Yes, I certainly do love you, sets the date for our wedding then changes her mind and says: 'I really don't know whether I want to marry you or not.'"

Take this fellow who tried to shoot his girl, missed her but shot two innocent bystanders. Which sure was hard on them. Now the girl's going to marry him when he gets out of jail, and the college is going to let him graduate too with the rest of the class.

Wouldn't Have Same Luck
Now I'm just a farm boy and probably wouldn't have the luck of this college man, who's going to get his degree, marry the girl and get a lot of fancy presents besides. What do you make of this love business? Isn't it just craziness, I think so."

When a correspondent asks me what I make of this "love business", he certainly pays me a compliment. I'll deserve, because everyone has tried to define love and no one has yet succeeded. There is certainly an element of "craziness" in the type of love which prompts a man to kill the dearest thing to him in the world, and, when his jealous rage has subsided, wonder why he did it.

As my correspondent says, the papers are so full of love madness these days, and the violent crimes it has evoked, that one is tempted to believe some of the war insanity raging in Europe has found its way over here. Has it broken out in these murderous happenings, to which my correspondent not only refers but sends clippings to prove his point?

Some Outlets

The young farmer who tells me that at times he feels just as crazy as the people who do these violent deeds has much to be thankful for in the way of environment. There's a lot to be done around the farm and when he feels particularly wrought up and raging over the girl friend, he might hitchup the tractor and plow a field, chop down some trees that need chopping and as good as any remedy, get into the old car, go to the next town, invite some other girl to go to the movies and have supper with him. In a violent love affair when things go haywire, instead of doing something desperate, there is nothing like the counter-irritant in the shape of another girl or another man. These alternatives may not be the final solution, but they're a great temporary help.

Sometimes the love-crazed only succeed in making themselves ridiculous like the young man who tried to shoot his fiancée but wound up in hitting a couple of innocent bystanders. There is always a lucid interval when normal people can take things to hand before they go absolutely berserk. And the dividing line between sanity and insanity is when one takes advantage of the lucid interval.

His Dad Objects

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm almost 18 years old, and my father thinks that a boy of my age has no business taking out girls. My mother is dead and I have been taking care of myself more or less, for a couple of years. I have a job now and earn a small salary.

I took one girl to the movies several times, but when my father found out about it he forbade me to go with her. I thought it was this one girl, but it seems he refers to all of them. His reason is that I don't earn enough to support a wife. But who wants a wife? I just want to go with the girls for companionship and good times.

Has my father any right to forbid me the society of nice girls? Shall I go with them on the sly?

BREWSTER

I can't understand why your father objects to your going with nice girls. The best way for young people to avoid that phase of adolescence called girl or boy "crazy," as the case may be, is to know plenty of boys and girls.

While I never advise a boy in his teens to go against his parents' wishes, I think your father should really be brought around to a more normal point of view. Isn't there someone among your friends, or in the family, who would reason with him? Of course it would have to be someone whose judgement he respects.

An Excellent Match

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I've known "G" for eight years, and have always admired him for everything he does. He's tops for looks, is tall, a good dresser, wonderful companion, and a man who is rapidly going to the top, as he's ambitious. Now here's my problem:

I've been separated from my husband for three years, and will never go back. "G" wants me to get a divorce and marry him. He loves me and I do him. He has left this part of the country three times, but always comes back, hoping that I'll consider him for a husband. Do you think we were destined for one another? He knows just how things were during my marriage and knows what a terrible time I had while I lived with my husband.

They say opportunity knocks but once; do you think this my chance for happiness? My family thinks he is an excellent match. JUST GENE

Unless divorce is a matter of science with you, why shouldn't I marry this man who promises to give you all the happiness you need in your first marriage.

Didn't Understand Love
Dear Miss Fairfax:
I'm 17 years old. Three

CELEBRATING MAURICES 18th. ANNUAL BIRTHDAY SALE!

months ago I met a very boy on a blind date. We went to a dance and I enjoyed him very much, and I thought he had a good time also.
After the dance we went on a date, but I wasn't in a very amiable mood and was short to him. On the next date to this date he said he'd like to meet his mother and I didn't even answer. Coming home he told me he was planning to get married, but I said
I wasn't interested. I imagined he was referred to another girl, and not to me.

I happened to see him recently, and know now that I'm in love with him. He hasn't seen me since, but I've seen him several times and he's always alone, so I don't think he married after all. How can I let him know I'm interested and would like a call from him?
ELLEN.

This girl's letter might serve as a warning to all girls not to indulge in fits of the sulks, when the boy friend is talking casually about marriage. Perhaps he has a long distance way of making love; some-men do. And it's just as well to withhold the little fits of temper until you discover whether the call is "local" or "long distance."

Why not give a party or an autumn picnic a Sunday night supper and invite him? If you invite other young people, it will not look too pointed.

Dr. William P. Few, Duke President, Dead

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 17. (AP)—
Dr. William Preston Few, 72, president of Duke University, died Wednesday of coronary thrombosis after a week's illness.
He was connected with Duke University and its predecessor, Trinity College, forty-four years as professor of English literature, dean and, finally, president since 1910.

Two Women Seek To Register for Draft

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17. (AP)—
Two women appeared in good faith at a draft registration place and said they'd been told they must go through with it just like the men.
"Not right now," replied the registrar, a schoolmarm. "Things aren't that bad yet."

Maryland Per Capita Income Higher

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17. (AP)—Income per capita in Maryland amounted to $595 in 1939, compared with a national per capita income of $536, the commerce department announced here. Mississippi was lowest with $203 and New York was the highest with $825.
The $536 average for the nation compares with $515 in 1938; $679 in 1929, the peak prosperity year, and

$576 in 1933.
The 1939 per capita income of $595 for Maryland compares with $559 in 1938, $695 in 1929, and $433
in 1933.
Salaries and wages accounted for sixty per cent of total income for the nation.
The 1929, 1938, 1936, and 1939 per capita incomes for nearby states were:
Virginia—$419, $350, $385, $388.
West Virginia—$446, $362, $366, $378.
Pennsylvania—$766, $406, $641, $575.

Learning by Role Is Seen To Have Its Advantages

After Being Taught by Meaning Memorizing
Will Add Much

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

We hear and read so much against memorizing at school that we might suppose it a sin for a pupil to learn anything by heart.
Some teachers, indeed, fear they might be scolded by their bosses if they were ever caught having their children learn anything by rote.
Although the child might easily slip through the modern primary grades without having to commit anything to memory with a purpose, the student in high school and college won't last beyond the first mid-year examinations if he has not practiced long and hard on memorizing facts and symbols.
What would happen to the student in medicine, law or engineering if he had not disciplined himself in the art of learning things by heart? Even the student of "education" whose professor rails against memorizing will be a failure unless he has done considerable honing in the course.

Memorizing Important
Curious how carelessly some speakers and writers refer to memorizing by school children. While they appear to condemn the learning of anything by heart, they really mean, as a rule, only to condemn such learning that is meaningless or useless to the child. A few extremists, of course, would condemn the memorizing of anything with a purpose. They would have the child memorize without knowing that he is doing it, as having a tooth pulled without feeling it.

You and I believe, on the contrary, that any item of fact or skill worth using is worth keeping and worth learning and practicing, to remember it. We believe that incidental learning of items which will be used over and over again for years is often very unreliable, such as the basic addition and subtraction facts and the spelling of certain words.

Both Aid Student
What the ultra-modern school has forgotten is memory. Rightly it has put emphasis on meaning. Now let it balance this with memorizing in order to capitalize on the meaning. I would suggest the slogan, "After meaning, memorize," and I wouldn't quibble too much over the meaning of some very essential items like 8 and 9 are 13, 7 from 16 leaves 9. In contrast with prevailing practice I would have the child memorize such basic fact before using it in a concrete problem. Then I should like to have him use this fact which was correctly learned, in numerous verbal problems, to help him hold fast to it.
Hundreds of parents have written me to send them the 100 simple addition and 100 simple subtraction facts to give their children (attacking four or five a day) to learn by heart. Hundreds more will keep writing me at 235 East Forty-fifth Street, N. Y. City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, in order to receive these pages and other suggested helps for the child with trouble in arithmetic.

Wallace Defends New Deal Social Security Policy

Challenges Republican Statement Benefits Will Not Be Paid

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17. (P)—Henry A. Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice president, challenged here the Republican charge that social security benefits will not be paid if the Roosevelt administration is re-elected.

"Such talk is in the same class with the story that went out in pay envelopes just before the election in 1936, that you would have to wear license numbers around your necks like dogs," he said in an address prepared for delivery at Syria mosque.

Although Wallace did not mention Wendell Willkie, the Republican presidential nominee said at Youngstown, O., on Oct. 3 that if the Roosevelt administration is re-elected "no social security will ever be paid because this nation will go bankrupt."

Scores Republicans

Wallace charged that three successive Republican administrations had "made no effort to remedy" what he termed the "system of irresponsible financial manipulation" of the 1920's and added:

"The men who planned and operated the crazy financial rattle-trap that crashed in 1929, are not in a good position to tell you that government system of old-age insurance will go bankrupt unless they are allowed to take over."

Wallace credited the Roosevelt administration with establishing the National Labor Relations Act, the federal wage and hour laws, the United States Employment Service and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Refers to Business

"But," he went on, "you are told that if you forget all that has been done and will turn the government over to the Republican party, business will boom. x x x You are told that business would have greater confidence in a Republican administration. Well, business did have perfect confidence in a Republican administration in 1930 and 1931, and everybody knows what happened to business and to jobs."

Sheriff Killed at Registration Center

BURWELL, Neb., Oct. 17. (P)—A shooting scrape at a Dandahills draft registration center killed Loup County Sheriff George Brock here and wounded two other men, one critically.

A posse guided by an airplane wheeling overhead arrested three men for questioning about the slaying soon after the sheriff died in a hospital here.

Held tonight at Broken Bow were John Birkes, 50, and his nephew, Richard Birkes, 22, both wounded.

WILLKIE AND LEGIONNAIRES IN CLOSE HARMONY

Wendell L. Willkie (in grey coat) joins American Legionnaires in song at the Syracuse, N. Y., ball park, where the Republican presidential candidate delivered a blistering attack on the New Deal. Willkie enlisted as a private in the World War and rose to the rank of captain.

and in a hospital. Loup County Attorney A. F. Alder said he would charge them with murder. John's brother Willard, 55, who was not at the Valley View registration headquarters where the shooting occurred, was taken to the Grand Island jail for safekeeping.

Alder said the shooting occurred during a scuffle between Brock and Richard Birkes when the sheriff tried to serve an assault warrant on the young man who had just registered under the conscription program.

Three Foreign Ships Being Made Ready To Sail from New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (P)—Three ships which sought refuge here from the dangers of sea conflict—including the prizes of the British and Norwegian merchant marines—were being readied for wartime service.

The 85,000-ton liner Queen Elizabeth, largest and fastest ship in the world, was scheduled to join her sister ship, the Queen Mary, sail the empty ship to Liverpool, England, on a "mercy mission."

The 18,673-ton Oslofjord, Norwegian line officials said the ship to sail in a few days for an undisclosed port.

They said they didn't know if the Vichy government or the De Gaulle "Free French" movement of the French freighter San had issued the order.

New Budget Making Policy Inaugurated By Governor O'Connor

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17. (P)—Inauguration of a new budget-making policy, along with first applications of new gubernatorial powers to impound state department funds, was disclosed by Governor O'Connor.

The policy, he said, will affect directly compilation of the budget to be submitted to the 1941 legislature and represents an effort to economize before rather than after funds are allocated.

First use of the impounding clause in the 1939 budget and procurement act was made in connection with the state welfare department's budget requests, which recently were revised downward by the board of public works to the tune of $416,000.

It was not an actual budget reduction, O'Connor asserted.

"What the board did, on my recommendation, was set aside $416,000 which the department had asked," he explained. "That money is impounded by law and the department has been directed to revise its budget to fit the appropriation granted.

"If, at some time during the biennium, a crisis should arise, and the welfare agency would urgently need the money, it would be available, if not, it is that much saved."

CHAPTER ONE

A DOOR OPENED and closed quickly. Two flannel-clad legs vaulted the office railing, and a quick voice said "Hello, sweet-heart! The Old Man wants to see me?"

The senior secretary did not look up. "He does," she said solemnly. "You can go right in."

He had already gone in.

The girl on the outer side of the railing had a momentary impression of the backs of long legs, of broad shoulders and the cavalier carriage of a crisply brushed head as the door marked J. T. Gregory, President, closed back of them.

The senior secretary resumed her reading of the letter in her hand. She read it through a second time, giving herself a moment before meeting the darkening eyes fixed on her with a dreadful sort of waiting. She'd seen that waiting gaze, felt that still breathing innumerable times before as she perused the letters of introduction addressed to the president of the Consolidated Broadcasting company.

Familiar phrases ran beneath her eyes: "Hello, sweetheart! The old man wants to see me?"

"She put the letter back into its envelope and handed it across the railing. 'It's a very nice letter,' she said, smiling. 'Thank you. Do . . . do you think it will help me?' the girl asked. 'The writer is program director at WRTX. He knows my work well. I sang on his station for a year before I came to New York. If Mr. Gregory would just . . . just . . .'" She stopped, conscious of the note of desperate anxiety she had tried to keep out of her voice.

"I'll show it to him if you wish. However, I think if you take it to Mr. Munson's office, you'll get quicker action. He arranges all the auditions. I'll ring his secretary and see—"

She broke off as the bell of her desk telephone rang, and picked up the instrument.

Kit Reilly thrust her hands into her pockets. They would tremble. Her eyes, straying over the luxurious office, felt warm with resentment that ran like a slim flame along the growing edges of her dependency. The fabricated walls, the thick carpet, the subdued color tones, were part of the design of the place, labeled by the word "Noiseless" on the typewriters. It was a room designed to keep the Kit Reillys from the overdrive of hysteria.

"All I ask is a chance!" The cry was in her heart, stopped before it could pass her lips.

"This is your last chance!" The sentence, spoken with angry emphasis, separated clearly from the babble of voices that came from the room with the closed door and startled Kit Reilly.

The secretary was speaking into the telephone. "Sorry, I can't put Mr. Healey on the wire just now." She glanced over her shoulder toward the door where the angry voice could be heard. "He's in conference with Mr. Gregory. . . . I'll give him your message."

Something quick and eager leaped into the Reilly girl's eyes; it shortened her breath when she spoke:

"Is that . . . that VANCE Healey?" Her vague gesture indicated the presence that had passed a moment before.

"In person," the secretary answered without looking up, as she dialed an inter-office number. When she did, she cast an uneasy glance at the door back of her. Mr. Gregory, she thought, ought not to raise his voice under the circumstances. She put the telephone back in its cradle. "Mr. Munson's line is busy. . . . Do you know Mr. Healey?"

"The girl shook her head. 'Not personally,' she said. 'Even if I'd seen his face, I don't think I'd have recognized him. He . . . he used to play football at the university in the town where I grew up. I-I remember him from then.'"

"Right you are. He was All-American, if I remember rightly. Quite a hero."

Kit nodded. "He still is," she said. "I guess he's the most popular announcer in America, isn't he?"

"Well—" There was a dubious note in the unanswered question as the secretary rose, summoned to the inner office by an imperative buzzer.

Every line of the other girl's figure was waiting. "Look," Mary Johnson said. "Take your letter down to Miss Laurence on the floor below—she's Mr. Munson's secretary—and she'll fix you up. Let me know what happens."

"The heat of Gregory's anger had chilled to a degree that Mary Johnson was quick to feel as she looked at him over the broad shoulders of Vance Healey, seated with his back to the door. The head above those shoulders was bent in a pose that struck her at once as unfamiliar; there was humility in it. "The Crown Prince," they called him at CBC. He remembered, since his overnight rise from the obscurity of the staff announcing division to top flight roles as ace sports announcer and news commentator.

"They'd come to Consolidated at the same time, seven years before. Vance, straight from college—a country boy wearing the laurels of athletic achievement to broadcast football events; Mary Johnson, as a stenographer. Today he was making fifteen hundred dollars a week while she—she sighed because there were no popularity polls for private secretaries.

"Yes, Mr. Gregory," she said. "Who's announcing the Sember broadcast tonight?"

"Mark Craley, Mr. Gregory." "Tell Munson I want Craley to cover the Louis fight tonight." Healey's head came up. "I've got all the help I need. J. T. Evers covers the crowd. O'Connor will pick it up in the dressing rooms and I'll stick by the ringside."

Gregory ignored the interruption enough as it is, supplying their forces.

The British, on the other hand, have solidly reinforced the railway line which stretches from Matruh to Alexandria and will have considerably less trouble maintaining their front lines.

The Italians still hold the seventy-mile strip of coastline within Egyptian territory, and for the last month have been consolidating their position by building a road.

Their offensive operations in recent weeks have been mainly air raids which seem to have done little damage. They usually fly at very great heights, drop their bombs and turn back quickly. Since the war started their main

End of Drought Blow to Italian Forces in Egypt

Desert Will Soon Be a Quagmire; Rail Line Open

By EDWARD KENNEDY

MATRUH, Egypt, Oct. 17. (AP)—Nine months of drought have ended, and soon the desert over which Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's Italian legions must roll if they are to reach Alexandria and Suez will be a quagmire.

The rains came yesterday, a lashing sub-tropical cloudburst. The parched land absorbed it quickly, but today it rained again. Bedouin tribesmen say the time has come now and for two months we may expect rain.

The Italians may still try to drive towards Alexandria, but moving armored cars and tanks through the mud would be virtually impossible, and they have had difficul-

CAA Investigates
Airport Sites
In Hardy County*Reports of Huge Building
Program Erroneous,
Engineer Says

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 17.—A. H. Wessell, district engineer of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, was in Moorefield this week inspecting possible sites for an airport near Hardy county near Moorefield. Wessell was here at the request of Representative Jennings Randolph, who has been actively interested in securing an airport in this section.

Wessell stated that the recent story carried in all newspapers about a huge government building program was erroneous and that CAA authorities were mystified as to the source of the report.

The engineer examined five possible sites for Moorefield and approved three of them as meeting with the CAA requirements of 1800 foot runways for primary airports and 2400 feet runways for secondary airports.

Representatives of the Moorefield Air club and the Moorefield Lions club accompanied Wessell on his inspection. Wessell said no funds were available from any department of the government at present for the construction of airports but that a WPA or NYA project could be worked out if the land was in the name of the town or the county or some division of the government. He advised the town representatives to start their airport on a site that would satisfy future requirements of the CAA.

Plentiful Water Supply Helps Romney Firemen Save Potter House

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 17.—Abundant water in a recently enlarged reservoir yesterday saved the home of Ward Potter near here from destruction by fire.

Romney volunteer firemen were called to the home, about three miles east of here, shortly after 1 p. m. yesterday when fire, believed to have been caused by an overheated stove, broke out, spread rapidly and threatened the entire structure.

Aided by the plentiful nearby water supply, the firemen quickly brought the blaze under control, confining most of the damage to the room of origin. The damage was estimated to be between $500 and $1,000.

Flames destroyed several outbuildings on the Potter farm a few years ago, but Romney firemen managed to save the large barn.

As a precautionary measure, Mr. Potter, during the summer, enlarged the reservoir he had previously had constructed. It was this, firemen said, that contributed largely to their ability to quell yesterday's blaze.

"When eventually I am able to get to my station, it is possible that, aside from other duties, I may have occasion to help administer a small portion of this fund."

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 17.—(AP)—Henry A. Wallace took as his theme tonight the critical state of world affairs and declared the United States cannot afford the risk of "allowing the financial manipulators, the holding company men and stock speculators to give us another ride ending in national collapse."

The Democratic nominee for vice-president, completing a tour of West Virginia's upper Ohio valley said in his prepared address at the high school auditorium:

"Even if we should be able to defend ourselves against a military invasion the dictators would seize their chance to move in on us if they were to see us lying helpless and panic-stricken as we were in 1932."

Wallace contended that "agents of the dictators" are working for the defeat of President Roosevelt and to "substitute an inexperienced administration."

"To accomplish their purpose," he said, "the agents of the dictators are doing their best to spread confusion, x x x They want to weaken our will to prepare and to resist."

"I hope we shall not be taken in as the people of so many free nations in Europe were taken in and as, unfortunately, our hero Lindbergh (Col. Charles A. Lindbergh) was taken in."

The Democratic nominee apparently was referring to speeches by Lindbergh opposing intervention in Europe.

Washington Countians Will Study Special Education Program

Washington county school board officials and members of the teaching staff will visit Allegany county schools next Wednesday to make a study of the special education program for underprivileged children.

Charles L. Kopp, superintendent of Allegany county schools, announced Benjamin Willis, superintendent of Washington county schools, and board members will head the visiting delegation.

The special education program for underprivileged children was adopted for Allegany county elementary schools ten years ago and has been in force in the high schools for the past four years.

The program is regarded as outstanding and has attracted a great deal of attention from other counties of the state.

Improvements Made At Keating Nursery

Improvements costing approximately $800 have been made at the Keating Memorial Day Nursery, Baltimore avenue, within the past six months, according to Sister Mary, superintendent.

The improvements include interior painting, the installation of a new kitchen sink and a furnace stoker, addition of Venetian blinds in the children's dining room and the purchase of new educational toys for the nursery school. New dishes also have been added to the nursery kitchen.

Dr. R. W. Trevisakis, Baltimore avenue physician and surgeon, has donated an iron fence 110 feet long and four feet high to the nursery. The fence will be erected in the near future.

Seventy-five children are receiving free lunches daily at the nursery and there are twenty-five children enrolled in the school, Sister Mary said.

Sister Andrea recently replaced Sister Charatna as a member of the staff. Sister Andrea came here from the Cathedral Day Nursery Philadelphia, and Sister Charatna was transferred to the same place. The third member of the local staff is Sister Rosemond.

Moose Initials Five Candidates

A class of five candidates was initiated into Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, last night at the Moose home, Beall street, by the degree team.

Those initiated were Harry H. Gilbert, Louis Amato, F. V. Smith, John C. Deetz and John E. Dorn.

George J. Erling, governor of the lodge, presided.

Following the initiation, an oyster fry was served to members and their wives in the recreation room. Approximately 100 attended.

Music was furnished by the Moose band under the direction of Prof. A. R. Serf.

City Employee Is Operated On for Infected Tooth

Robert Groves, 921 Virginia avenue, painter for the city traffic department, yesterday underwent an operation at Allegany hospital for an infected tooth.

It was necessary to lance his jaw to reduce the swelling caused by poisoning from the roots of an infected tooth.

He returned to his home two hours after the operation and was reported much improved last evening.

The former Democratic political forecaster made his predictions today before a group of Chicago business men who three weeks ago launched a "Prairie Fire" drive to elect Mr. Willkie.

Bases Predictions on Poll

"I base my predictions on a poll which The Pathfinder completed ten days ago," said Mr. Hurja. "I feel it is just as accurate as the one in 1936 on which I based my statement that the Republicans would carry only two states. I say just as confidently now that Mr. Willkie will be swept into office, and I feel it will be by a landslide vote."

"While the South undoubtedly will go to Roosevelt, Willkie will have New England and the Eastern Seaboard, the Middle West and the farm belt voting substantially in his favor. This will be more than enough to elect him."

Meanwhile the "prairie fire" is catching on and spreading to other cities. It was reported at a meeting of 1,300 business men at the Palmer House.

Nice Charges

(Continued from Page One) Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson in this connection. I doubt if Senator Radcliffe is qualified to speak for Lincoln, and probably if he studied the record carefully as to what happened to President Wilson in 1918, he might think it desirable to make no further reference thereto.

About Swapping Horses

"Is it not better to swap horses crossing the stream than make a vain attempt to swim a plunging and reckless horse across an ocean?"

"England found this out and corrected it; France found it out, but far too late. What qualifications has the New Deal displayed to lead and govern in time of war?"

Nice contends election of Wendell Willkie, G. O. P. presidential nominee, "would restore to the government safety, sanity and security."

Smoke Screen

(Continued from Page One) banks to seventeen. A federal government so disorganized and sprawling as to require banks to report to seventeen different bureaus undertakes to tell American business how to operate.

The Code of Federal Regulations about to be issued by the Government Printing Office will be in seventeen volumes, averaging 1,100 pages, or a total of 19,000 pages. This covers only to June 1, 1938, and is exclusive of course, of the United States Statutes at Large. It is the law written by downtown Washington AFTER Congress goes home.

The Government Printing Office in announcing this new publication states that from March 14, 1936 to October 7, 1939 only three and a half years, 115 agencies of the federal government issued 14,889 rules, regulations and administrative decisions telling American business how to operate.

The reason God made man last was because He did not want him meddling while the work was going on.—Copyright, 1940, by Samuel B. Pettengill.

Local Boy Honored At St. Francis

A Cumberland boy, Leo LaNeve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis LaNeve, has been elected to the student council of St. Francis college at Loretto, Pa.

Young LaNeve is a graduate of LaSalle, being a member of the 1938 class. He is now a junior at St. Francis. Three years ago he won the state and Washington Catholic championship in oratory and received a prize from Justice Pierce Butler of the United States Supreme court.

The St. Francis student council, which makes the laws for the student body, elected LaNeve secretary.

New York—The smart set is being countrified.

Night horse races, polo, farming—even debutante parties in barns—fill the early fall program before the return to Manhattan for the winter season.

The first after-dark trotting races ever held in the East have drawn the "horsey set" out to the Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury, L. I., night after night. Dunbar Bostwick and Elbridge T. Gerry (the polo players) drive in the meets.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Roland Harriman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry take dinner guests to the races. Simplest kind of clothes—sport togs and tweeds—are generally worn, though some men appearing in navy blue and wine velvet dinner jackets.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

Science Has Learned Much Concerning Vitamins and Health through Tests

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D., city chemist had juggled the experimental research in the vitamins is a fascinating subject for the biologist. By varying the diet of certain animals he can produce conditions that are as much a surprise to him as anybody else. He cannot predict the results he is going to have.

I recently visited a busy experimental laboratory in one of our large universities where a number of important discoveries have been made. A new experiment was in progress and a totally surprising result was at hand.

Some rats had been fed on a diet from which had been removed part of the Vitamin B factor. Never mind which one it was. There are already six or eight—maybe by the time this is read ten, Vitamin B factors. This was a new one. The vitamin researchers have to be fine food chemists and the most astonishing thing to an outsider like me is to see the way they juggle organic compounds around. So one

White Streak Produced

Then they fed this food to some litters of young rats. When the rats grew up they were perfect except that each had a streak of white hair down the back. They would normally have been ordinary black rats, but this streak of white hair extended from the nape of the neck over the back and spread out in a pattern over the shoulder and hips. In the rough outline of a bear skin rug (a bear skin rug without a head, if you see what I mean).

Now the uncanny thing to me about all this was that every animal had the same area turned white. Practically exactly the same individual hairs were affected. The hair on the head, on the legs and belly was normal; white only down the back.

Speculations Too Hasty

The premature graying factor! Of course, the mind naturally jumps toward applying this to man. Nobody yet knows what causes premature graying in hair or in fact any kind of graying. So maybe a person becomes prematurely gray because he lacks something in his diet. Maybe premature graying could be prevented by eating a great deal of this factor. Maybe the Prisoner of Chillon had a great deal taken out of his diet overnight.

But such speculations are too hasty. In the first place, you have to begin early. These rats were fed on this arranged diet practically from birth. In the second place, it would be very difficult to arrange such a diet for a human; premature graying in humans is probably hereditary though perhaps due to inability of the body to utilize this food factor. And, lastly, man is not as easily influenced as some animals. It is not as easy to produce variations in him as it is, for instance, in goldfish and dogs and butterflies.

The application of vitamin research to human conditions is not always immediate. It is a subject of immense potentialities for the practical results of which we must patiently wait.

Questions And Answers

A. J. C.—"I am wondering if this is any cause for alarm; during the hot weather my feet, ankles and legs swell considerably—my ankles about an inch all around."

Answer—There is no reason why hot weather should cause such a swelling in the ankles. It is true in hot weather the feet swell somewhat from superficial congestion, but what you describe is too much for simple hot weather to be a fac-

ON SECRET MISSION

Comm. Frederick Boone

Commander Frederick Boone of the U. S. Navy is enroute to Europe by slipper plane on a mission to London. The state and navy departments have not revealed the purpose of the trip, but it is believed to deal with use of British naval bases by American warships.

tor. The commonest cause of such a condition is varicose veins. K. L.—"Is evaporated milk with water added as healthy for a child as fresh bottled milk?"

Answer—Yes, authorities on child feeding agree. Evaporated milk is simply good whole milk that is submitted to a process whereby half the water of the milk is removed. The milk used is of the best quality. When the water content is restored, the mixture is like good grade whole milk. In fact, the process makes it a little easier of digestion.

Catropa Deformed To Join the Army

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17. (AP)—Registering Vincent F. Catropa for the draft here was a case of "carrying coals to Newcastle" for the 24-year old jobless cloth cutter is determined to get in the army despite flat feet.

Catropa was registered in a hospital where he is recovering from a painful operation to correct his flat-footedness. Army doctors turned him down when he tried to enlist last month. So he arranged for the operation.

The treatment was so painful that he still requires frequent sedatives and faces three weeks in bed and a wheel chair. "But it's worth it," Catropa said. "Where could anybody find a better job than in the U. S. army?"

Lutherans Clarify Position on Draft

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 17. (AP)—To clarify its action on conscientious objectors, the United Lutheran Church of America convention has adopted a resolution "that nothing in the pronouncements of this convention be construed as favoring any pastor who may object to registering for the selective draft."

Earlier in the week, the group proclaimed it the citizen's duty to bear arms in defense of his country but recognized the individual's right to objection.

Democrats Plan Tour

FREDERICK, Md., Oct. 17. (AP)—Frederick county Democrats will whop it up for their state and national candidates Friday night with a day-long tour, a rally in the evening, winding up with an old-fashioned barn dance.

English Town's Plea To 'Namesake' Fails

EDMONTON, Ky. (P)—The mayor of Edmonton, England, apparently believing this Kentucky town was named for the English city, sent a cable asking local officials to help pay for a Spitfire plane.

The plea fell on deaf ears. County Judge W. S. Kelly said he didn't even have money to cable an answer. Besides, he added, Edmonton, Ky., was named for Edmond Rogers, a soldier who fought against England in the Revolution.

Keeping Up with The F. D. R. Joneses

NEW YORK (P)—Just how many boys have been named Franklin D. Roosevelt Jones, Smith or White is not a matter of record.

Just how many have been named Wendell Willkie is not of official record either, but there are 24 bearers of the Republican presidential candidate's name whose parents have sent word to Republican headquarters here.

Germans Get Special Street Cars in Warsaw

BERLIN (P)—Germans in Warsaw are to have special street cars during the rush hours. The Warsaw Zetung reveals. The cars will be marked "special car for Germans," and Nazis will pay a reduced fare. Half fare will be collected from Germans in uniform.

Radio for Every Purse

BERN, Switzerland (P)—Swiss citizens soon will have low-priced radios. The Peasants Union has been demanding a cheap, reliable set for years but manufacturers showed little interest until recently when Federal authorities persuaded them to turn out a model within reach of every purse.

Paul Chrisman And Tom Harmon Lead Grid Pack

Christman's Passing Gains
504 Yards and Harmon
Rushes for 377

By GAIL FOWLER
SEATTLE, Oct. 17 (AP)—Pitching Paul Chrisman of Missouri and Tom Harmon, the Michigan high-schooler, both of whom were statistical pace-setters in 1939, are back at their old tricks.

Figures released by the American Football Statistical Bureau today showed Chrisman, the nation's leader in the total offense—gains rushing and passing, with Harmon but a scant six yards behind and with both well outdistancing the field.

Chrisman gained his ascendancy through forward passing, in which division he also ranks first in which he rated second last year.

Harmon, the nation's second best rusher last year, is first this week. Chrisman in three games has gained but 27 yards on the ground, but he accounted for 504 yards in the air for a total of 531 yards.

Harmon, in three games, rolled up 377 yards on the ground and 148 upstarts for a 525 total.

Other total offense leaders:

(3) Jimmy Reynolds, Oklahoma A. M., last week's leader, 458 yards; (4) Al Ghesquiere, Detroit, eighth last week, 448; (5) Adrian Dodson, Louisiana State, fourth last week, 421. Johnny Knolls of Creighton, Marion Pugh, Texas A. & M., Jack Jacobs of Oklahoma, Jim

"Sweet" Lallane of North Carolina and Merle Hapnes, the Mississippi workhouse, round out the first ten.

Top rushers, after Harmon's 377 yards, are Knolls of Creighton, fifth in the nation despite his team's setbacks, with 374; Zirkinski, Lafayette 342; Ghesquiere, Detroit, 338; and Dodson, L.S.U., 306.

After Chrisman with his 26 completions, leading aerialists are Frank, New York University, 23; Gene Moore, Drake, first last week, 21; and Pugh, Texas A. & M., and Billy Sewell, Washington State College, 19 apiece.

Dobbs of Tulsa leads with punters with a 46 yard average. He's followed by Matthews of William and Mary, with 45.08; O'Rourke, Boston College, 44.50; Norman Standlee, Stanford, 44.38; and Dean McAdams of the University of Washington, 43.41.

Marshall College Seeks Revenge for Last Year's Defeat by Wake Forest

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 18 (AP)—Seeking revenge for a 14-13 defeat handed them by Wake Forest here last year, 24 Marshall College gridgers departed late today for North Carolina and a Saturday night engagement with the Demon Deacons.

The Big Green squad, winner of three out of four games, was in top physical condition as it headed south. Doubtful of stopping John Falsani and his mates, Coach Cam Henderson hopes to turn the game into a wide open offensive battle.

Practice this week has been devoted largely to attack, with Jackie Hunt, Andy Dantoni and Harley Kuhl all showing to advantage.

Grantsville Teams Turn in Victories

GRANTSVILLE, Oct. 17—Coach Bill Grimm's Grantsville High booters defeated Accident High soccerists, 2-1, on the local field Tuesday, and Coach Abel F. DeWitt's Grantsville football team, 10-4.

Carl Lewis tallied the locals' field goal in the second quarter and Charles Bailey scored Accident's one-pointer on a free kick in the same frame.

Grantsville scored in each quarter in the girls' game with Mary Houck getting two field goals in the last half. R. Scorgum made Accident's two field goals in the first quarter. The lineups:

is keener to win than Columbia is on this occasion. For this reason, Georgia, Michigan-Illinois at Ann Arbor—Michigan, plus Harmon, is the better team. But no one knows yet just what rival Bob Zuppke has picked for his high upset. He stopped Harmon a year ago. I doubt that he can do it again. Michigan.

Army-Harvard at Cambridge—
Tests against Cornell don't count unless you have plenty on the side.
Army is better than it looked against Cornell. Neither team is strong. Harvard in something close to a toss-up.

Texas A. and M.-T.C.U. at College Station—If T.C.U. couldn't handle North Carolina, I doubt that T.C.U. can handle Kimbrough, Thomason, Robnett and others. Texas A. and M.

Mississippi-Duquesne at Oxford—Two strong teams. Ole Miss is one of Dixie's best. Duquesne is nobody's pushover. I'll string with Old Man River and Harry Mehre.

Dartmouth-Yale at New Haven—

Yale took a crippled team to Philadelphia last week. The Bulldog was none too good, even in shape. Dartmouth isn't what the Green used to be. Here's the true gambler, Dartmouth in a toss-up.

S.M.U.-Auburn at Dallas—Another smasher where both are good. Auburn has the better backfield. S.M.U. has kicker Johnston and the better line. A nod to the Texas Mustang.

Washington-Oregon State at Seattle—A hard test for Washington, but I'll string with Dean McAdams and the Rose Bowl favorites—meaning Washington.

Cornell-Syracuse at Ithaca—Syracuse has bounded well back, but not far enough to catch up with Cornell. Who can?

Northwestern-Wisconsin at Madison—Any team good enough to whip Ohio State has the jump on Wisconsin. Northwestern gets the call.

Nebraska-Kansas at Lawrence—
Nebraska, plus Rohrig, too strong

Pullman—Stanford is still unbeaten but none too hot. A long shot chance on Washington State at home.

Michigan State-Temple at Philadelphia—Michigan State crowded both Harmon and Michigan. Michigan State.

Notre Dame-Carnegie Tech at South Bend—Notre Dame will finish close to the nation's top. The South Bend Simoon.

Georgia Tech-Vanderbilt at Atlanta—Another big Southern test.

Vanderbilt has the best defense—
Tech the more baffling attack. Close to a toss-up with the Ramblin'
Wreck given the nod, meaning
Georgia Tech. No upset, either way.

I like U.C.L.A. over California Navy over Drake, Texas over Arkansas, Georgetown over V.P.I. Kentucky over George Washington, Duke over Colgate. The Rice-Tulane game is a hard one to figure. Tulane is due for a rebound. A toss-up: North Carolina over N. C. State. Holy Cross looks too strong for N.Y.U.

Steel Stocks Slightly Higher and Main List Is Somewhat Improved

Technical Adjustments Given as Reason for Good Day

By FRERICK GARDNER

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP)—Gains running between one and two points for some of the steels gave stability to a nervous thin stock market today.

The final bell found quotations throughout the list generally higher by fractions, although most of the gainers, at some time in the session, had been below water level.

The Associated Press average of sixty selected stocks advanced 2 of a point at 44.7 for the third consecutive rise, reaching the best place in ten days. Transactions totaled 648,900 shares compared with 662,850 yesterday.

Commentators regarded the action as based largely upon technical adjustments of positions by professionals, since few "outside" orders were reported.

Contributing to sentiment for the advance was the firmness of the London exchange under the fury of German air attacks and the strong lift in the Toronto exchange which experienced a 300,000-share day.

During most of the session, steel intermittently furnished almost the sole stiffening influence. Late in the day, aircraft rallied to the gaining side. At the last, many rails forged ahead.

Chief among the gainers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, Douglas, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Preferred, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Air Reduction, Kennecott, American Smelting, Loft and International Paper.

Among the best in the Curb, where transactions were 132,000 shares compared with 114,000 yesterday, were Michigan Steel Tube, Meade Johnson, Jones & Laughlin Steel, Detroit Steel Products and Aluminum Ltd.

Chicago Grain Prices

CHICAGO, Oct. 17 (AP)—Heavy purchases both of cash wheat and corn today by shippers served to pull the grain market out of the doldrums and brought higher prices.

Sales of cash wheat for shipment, apparently to eastern millers for flour contracts, were the heaviest in one day for months. The total was 302,000 bushels. Corn sales were even heavier at 418,000 bushels, but this total, heavy as it was, could not correspond as a market influence with the unexpectedly large wheat sales.

Wheat closed firm at almost the day's best levels and 3/4 above yesterday's finish, December 60 1/2. May 62-62 1/2, oats 3/4 advanced, and land unchanged to 5 cents down.

MacLane Still a Villain In Embassy Picture

The biggest lament of Barton MacLane, screen "heavy" who portrays a big city racketeer in Republic's "Gang of Chicago," which opens today at the Embassy theater, is that he never wins the fight in any of his pictures.

"Usually, I'm just a thorough-going heavy," he declared during the filming of the picture, "and have nothing at all to do with the romantic interests. But even if I do sometimes win the girl at the beginning of the picture, I still lose her to the hero before the climax. Guess I just don't have any appeal!"

MacLane happens to be the type of player that movie producers like for "villain" roles. In real life he is just as substantial a fellow as he appears on the screen. He is better than six feet tall, weighs slightly more than two hundred pounds, has reddish brown hair and brown eyes. He duffs his villainy when the cameras stop turning of course. Actually he is good-natured, with a good sense of humor, likes his friends and animals. Unmarried, he spends most of his time away from work at his San Fernando Valley home.

Lloyd Nolan, Lola Lane, and MacLane have the leading roles in "Gang of Chicago."

Also currently showing is Tim McCoy in "Gun Code" and another chapter of "Terry and the Pirates."

'Snow White' Headlines Walt Disney Festival

Have you ever dreamed of Gnomeland? Have your dreams brought you into contact with those wonderful beings, the elves, dwarfs, enchanted birds and beasts, witches, lovely ladies that weave magic spells and dance and sing through sunny days and moonlit nights of romance? Such dreams of fantasy come to perfect realization tomorrow at the New Liberty theater where the Great Walt Disney Festival is the attraction.

No Disney Festival would be complete without the world-famous "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" as headliner, the first Disney full-length production that was three years in the making. In addition to "Snow White" there are four other famous Disney hits—Ferdinand the Bull, The Ugly Duckling, The Practical Pig, and Donald's Lucky Day.

CHAPLINS CELEBRATE

No Anachronism Worries In 'Howards' Filming

So thoroughgoing is the restoration of Williamsburg, Va., to its pre-revolutionary aspects that Frank Lloyd and his staff in the production of "The Howards of Virginia," based on Elizabeth Page's "The Tree of Liberty," had no worries about accidental glimpses of telephone poles or other anachronisms.

A remarkable shot obtained by Lloyd for his Columbia picture co-starring Cary Grant and Martha Scott at the Maryland theater, is a panorama showing the governor's palace as it appeared in 1770. For it, the camera was rotated in a complete circle.

The producer-director declared that Williamsburg is the only spot in the country where such a shot could be filmed without betraying some detail of modern American life.

Williamsburg, as restored by the Rockefeller Foundation, was a $20,000,000 set for Lloyd's company from Hollywood.

Drama, Songs and Gags Mark New Strand Film

Take a good-looking gal from Brooklyn and put her to singing in a cafe in Rangoon, and a couple of likely American lads who are in the teak logging business up in the Burmese hills, and let 'em meet at the cafe. Mix well with good dialogue, snappy situations, new songs, and you have: "Moon Over Burma," the Paramount comedy-romance uncorked yesterday at the Strand theater, with Dorothy Lamour as the girl and Robert Preston and Preston Foster as the lads.

The lads (don't confuse 'em, because both have Preston in their names) start things moving nicely at the cafe when they both fall in love with Miss Lamour, new short hair-do and all, after hearing her sing. Eventually she winds up at the compound where they operate their teak business.

Further development of the story hinges on the fact that the boys went down to Rangoon to borrow enough money to keep their business going. The man from whom they borrowed the money wants their business, too; and he sets an operative to work to slow down the output of teak.

But the real fun and romance comes in because the money lender's daughter, played by Doris Nolan, loves Foster. He loves Lamour, and she loves him. Miss Nolan, jealous, tells Robert Preston, who also loves Lamour. That makes for lots of fun before it is determined who will win who. On top of all that there are a log jam and forest fire for excitement.

the anti-aircraft barrage rising from London's guns. Now and then, the shudder of an exploding bomb was felt in the city.

Bomb in Daytime
During the day hundreds of warplanes had been flung at the aerial line of defense drawn by British pilots over the southeast coast and while most of them were declared beaten off some broke through to strafe the capital once more.

How many had died here, was always, not stated, the ministry saying simply that casualties "are not expected to be heavy." The greatest single disaster was the entrapment of an undetermined number of persons in an air raid shelter which was covered by the heavy wreckage of a three-story building smashed by a bomb-hit.

It was a day of mass attack—a change in tactics from the alternative Nazi technique of using small numbers of craft in quick and relatively formless thrusts—and much of the action was fought high above the clouds and beyond the sight of those on the ground. In areas all over England, the anxious watchers below often had only the evidence of their ears—the thin, distant drone of big German squadrons—that raiders were about.

Wide Area Attacked
Both the west and southwest coasts were hit heavily. The air ministry emphasized that the attackers were mainly fighter planes rather than bombers and declared that not a single invading formation was able to defeat the splitting-up process of the British defense.

Evidence came that not all the weeks of raiding suffered by this capital had shaken the determination of the merchants to do business as usual.

The London News Chronicle began a campaign to speed up the process of clearing the debris from the streets, quoting the complaints of merchants that it was interfering with their trade.

Dewey Says

it, it is now borrowing 740 million dollars to build plants for national defense—those plants which could have been built and operating, during all of those destructive New Deal years," he said, adding:

"Billions for boom-dogging but not for national defense. That was the motto of the New Deal before the third term campaign came on. And that's why the third term campaign must fail."

"In the light of the record it is desperately dangerous to leave this administration in power. x x x"

Recalling President Roosevelt's visit here a week ago, Dewey commented that "now in the crisis of an election year, he is very busy looking for plants which have survived these last seven years—plants which would provide a good background for news reel pictures."

"The visit to your state was, of course, strictly non-political. That is why Mayor Scully (of Pittsburgh) and (Senator) Joe Guffey (D-Pa.) went along to discuss the defense program—the political defense of the New Deal."

Petroleum production in the United States thus far has amounted to 35,240,566,000 barrels—enough to fill a box one mile square and one and one-third miles high.

Burma Road Used

close the road with bombs. Facing this possibility, Chinese labor squads were drawn up today at strategic points under orders to reconstruct as fast as the Japanese could destroy. As added measures of defense, Chinese will travel spaced apart and chiefly at night.

Once again the road, an improvement of the ancient "silk trail" which Marco Polo traversed in the thirteenth century, shook under the heavy tires of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's motor transport, bringing in the supplies necessary to carry on against Japan and taking out the exports to pay for them.

The Burma Road, virtually the last lifeline of the Central Chinese government, makes up less than half of a 2,000-mile trade route connecting the Burmese seaport of Rangoon with the Yangtze river. It runs from the Burmese railroad at Lashio to Kunming, southwestern China, where an extension carries it on to Chungking, the Chinese capital.

Highway Improved
The three-month closing gave China's coolie corps time to improve surfacing of the highway, widen it on the curves and reduce the grades.

Francis K. Pan, director general of the Chinese National Transport Administration said about 1,600 trucks would operate. All are American-made except 300 British Lorries. Capacities range from two and one-half to six tons.

Pan said that necessary precautions against Japanese raids and sabotage had been completed.

"Considerable amount of the outgoing cargoes are destined for the United States and Russia," Pan said.

Work on the worst stretch of the road, between the Burma border and Kunming, was started late in 1937 to facilitate British commerce with regions of China otherwise cut off by the Japanese.

At places the road is bordered by tropical jungles and at others by snow-capped mountains and plateau lakes. Much of the construction was done by hand.

Thousands of men women and children worked like ants on the project, excavating and filling and laying long stretches of flat stone to surface the road where washouts were likely. Cylindrical boulders pulled by water buffalo took the place of steamrollers, farm tools the place of steamshovels.

Stimson

statements that were neither fair nor accurate" on the provision of housing for the troops. A "great majority" of the new housing facilities planned for an army of 1,200,000 would be ready by Dec. 15, he added.

Plans Armored Divisions

Stimson also told of plans for forming two new armored divisions next June, the third and fourth of that type toward an ultimate goal of ten. One will have its headquarters at Pine Camp, N. Y., and the other at Camp Beauregard, La. he said, and each will consist of about 11,500 men. He announced that a $6,000,000 contract had been let for new housing at Pine camp.

Earlier, a total draft registration running about 250,000 above expectations was indicated.

Some 16,404,000 men had been expected to present themselves for possible military training, but with state after state reporting more registrations than had been estimated for it, the grand total was revised upward to about 16,654,000. Officials said it would be four or five days before the exact total was known.

Dykstra Takes Office
Meanwhile, Clarence A. Dykstra, president of the University of Wisconsin, reached the city, took the oath of office as director of selective service, conferred with President Roosevelt and told reporters:

"The news is that the registration went off more than happily—with enthusiasm. It shows the ability of a great democracy to rise to an occasion of this kind."

Registration day had revealed, he said, that "those who thought we were soft and supine and, as a democracy, could not move with effectiveness, may be wrong."

With one big job behind them, Dykstra and other selective service officials looked forward to another for the immediate future—setting the local draft boards into effective operation and preparing for the great lottery which will determine the order in which men will be called into service.

Dykstra said he would first of all get acquainted with the men of the existing organization, and then confer with the governors of the various states on the personnel of the appeal boards.

"There are sure to be appeals, as soon as the lottery is held and the actual selection of men begins," he said.

Big Shuffle Soon
Meanwhile, the local boards will be busy, receiving from the various registration officials the cards filled in by the men yesterday. They are to be thoroughly shuffled and each will determine the order in which given a serial number. When the highest serial number in any draft board area has been determined by reports to headquarters here, of-ents will follow.

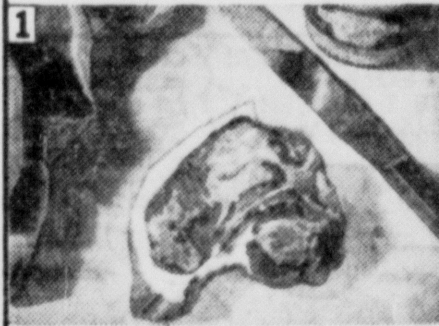

An equivalent total of numbered slips will be placed in gelatin capsules heaped in a gold fish bowl and drawn out one at a time. The registration officials the cards filled in by the men yesterday. They are to be thoroughly shuffled and each will determine the order in which given a serial number. When the highest serial number in any draft board area has been determined by reports to headquarters here, of-ents will follow.

11,331 Register For the Draft in Allegany County

Next Step Will Be Filling Out Questionnaires When Number is Drawn

Allegany county draft registration officials yesterday started sorting small white cards in the second step in the selective service program.

Lawrence A. Hewitt, clerk to the board of election supervisors, announced that 11,331 men between the ages of 21 and 36 registered in Allegany county Wednesday. The figure was about 2,700 short of the number officials estimated would be within the draft age in the county.

In Washington another staff of workers began preparation of order numbers which eventually will determine who shall enter one year of military training.

Some Failed To Register

Several men appeared at the election board office yesterday and announced they had failed to register Wednesday. Officials advised them to report to their local draft board when it is set up and if their excuse is accepted, they will be permitted to register without penalty. If, however, they do not have a good excuse they may have to pay the penalty—a fine of $10,000 or five years in prison, or both.

The next step for the registrants will be to fill out eight-page questionnaires which they will receive after the national lottery is held and their number chosen.

Hewitt said last night that three persons had already lost their registration certificates which under the law they must carry with them at all times. He said two of the men lost the cards within an hour after they received them.

Of the 11,331 men registered in Allegany they will be under the jurisdiction of four draft boards. Here, how the cards will be distributed.

Board No. 1, which includes South Cumberland districts, Orleans and other eastern districts of the county—2,486.

Board No. 2, which will have charge of downtown districts and districts west of Bedford road—2,901.

Board No. 3, including West Side, Rawlings, Ellerslie and LaVale—2,807.

Board No. 4—which includes Frostburg, Eckhart and the entire George's creek section—3,856.

To Organize Boards

Organization of local draft boards will not be made until after an all-day meeting in Baltimore Saturday. At that time L. Com. C. H. Bryant, state director of the draft will explain the set-up to members of all the boards in the state.

It was learned here yesterday that a number of informal meetings are being held among draft board members, in an attempt to outline definite plans.

The boards will organize by electing a chairman, appointing a clerk, and opening an office. The clerk's job in all probability will be a full time one, but qualifications and salary is not known.

Board members said yesterday they know the general qualifications and are accepting applications. They indicated applicants should be high.

Chamber Plans For Furtherance Of Its Projects

Traffic Problem, Airport Plans and Convention Bureau Discussed

Plans were made for several meetings in furtherance of pending movements and considerable other business was given attention at the monthly meeting of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce directors last night.

The downtown traffic problem, on which considerable information has been collected in surveys, will be discussed at a luncheon meeting to be held at 12:15 today at the Y. M. C. A. under auspices of the chamber's Traffic committee.

A smoker is to be held the evening of October 30 at the Port Cumberland hotel to decide on the establishment of a convention bureau. Douglas P. Bowie is chairman of a special committee appointed to determine public interest in such an agency. Representative business people are invited to attend the affair.

Plans were also furthered for a dinner meeting to be held November 13 at which W. H. Conant, a special writer on the staff of Barron's Weekly, will be the speaker. Conant, who has had a wide variety of business experience, will speak on "Business and the Future."

The Airport committee reported that plans for the municipal airport are in the final stages with the expectation that Ralph Rizer, the city engineer, will have them completed this week. Within the last few weeks, Rizer has had several conferences with C. A. Wessel, of the CAA, and a fourth runway has been added to the original layout.

On recommendation of the Membership committee, Dingle Easo Station and J. B. Waugh, contractor, were elected to membership.

Funds To Boost State Urged by Maryland Group

Western Maryland Confederation Urges $50,000 Appropriation

Meeting at the Town Hill hotel on Route 40, the Confederation of Western Maryland communities Wednesday night recommended that not less than $50,000 be appropriated to publicize Maryland and that funds in the State Forestry department be increased to provide adequate fire protection.

Two other recommendations made to the governor and the budget committee were:

1.—That the forestry department be made an independent commission.

2.—That turnouts be established on Western Maryland roads to permit trucks to pull off the highway and allow automobiles to pass.

Gambrell Re-elected

James H. Gambrell, Jr., of Frederick, was re-elected president of the confederation last night.

"Maryland," the president declared, "should be an objective and not a station for tourists."

"Let's dust off the welcome sign and get busy," he declared.

After some discussion, the group also recommended that the State Roads Commission in conjunction with the University of Maryland plan a long range program for the beautification and landscaping of Maryland highways.

Trucks Discussed

Park W. T. Loy, Hagerstown, discussing the "five and fifty" problem, said trucks go up the mountains at five miles an hour and it is impossible for cars to pass them. Then they go down the mountains a fifty miles an hour, making it still impossible for cars to pass them.

Holy Name Groups To Observe Feast

Procession and Services Scheduled October 27 at St. Mary's Church

Observing the feast of "Christ the King," senior and junior members of the Western Maryland Section of the Holy Name Society will attend a Vesper Service and Benediction Sunday, October 27, at St. Mary's Catholic church, Oldtown road, following a procession from the school grounds to the church.

Arrangements for the annual celebration were made last evening at a meeting of all parishes of Western Maryland in St. Michael's hall, Frostburg. The Right Rev. Msgr. Harry Quinn, of Baltimore, archdiocesan director of the Holy Name Society, addressed the gathering.

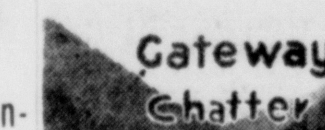

The procession, led by a band, will get under way at 2:30 p. m., with Thomas P. Conlon, of Cumberland, as grand marshal.

Services will start at 3 p. m., with the Rev. Msgr. Anthony Scarpati, pastor of St. Peter's church, Westport, as celebrant; the Rev. Father Leander, of St. Peter and Paul church, Cumberland, deacon, and the Rev. Francis J. McKown, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church, Cumberland, sub-season. The Rev. W. Joyce Russell, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, Cumberland, will preach the sermon.

The object of the service is a prayer for peace and those attending will say the Rosary.

Officers of the Holy Name Society expect a turnout of approximately 1,200 of their 1,800 members in the Catholic parishes of Garrett and Allegany counties.

Taxpayers' Research Group Seeks Reduction in State Income Tax

Gateway Chatter

Urges Steps To This End Be Taken in Letter to Governor O'Connor

A reduction in the Maryland state income tax is being sought by the Allegany County Taxpayers' Research Association.

As one of several steps to this end, the association, by its chairman, Frank E. Smith, has sent a letter to Governor Herbert R. O'Connor urging that the reduction be made.

"Your announcement through the Evening Sun of October 9 that you felt confident that it would be possible to make some reduction in the income taxes in smaller incomes," the letter stated, "is indeed gratifying to all of us who are working for reduction in taxes and control of public expenditures."

The fact that a saving of $450,000 the year ending September 30 has been accomplished, and the further fact that an additional saving of $416,000 for the current year is in sight, is evidence of results which can be accomplished under wise administration.

The candidates passed bar examinations last June. Attorney General William C. Walsh, moved that he be admitted to the bar and Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond granted the motion.

The new lawyers were sworn in by James A. Young, chief clerk, signed the test book and received their certificates.

Three women were among those admitted. They were, Nellie Marie Marshall and Emma Sadler Robertson, of Baltimore and Emma Ballard Waldrop, of Silver Spring.

Some reminders for the young men of Cumberland—and elsewhere—who registered Wednesday for the draft are in order.

The eleven questions asked of those who registered were intended merely to put them on record as being of draft age and to give them numbers for the national draft lottery which will be held late in October or early in November.

It may be months or perhaps years before many of those who registered Wednesday will be asked the detailed questions needed to classify them for service.

A man of draft age after registering however, has several duties and obligations.

He must always carry a certificate showing that he has registered.

He should watch for the serial numbers assigned to him, which will be posted at the office of his local draft board within a few days.

He should watch, next, for the order number which he receives in the drawing of serial numbers to be held in Washington between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1.

Moral Standards in Government Are Discussed by Walter P. Johnson

Says New Deal Has Broken Promises and Is Deceiving the People

Promises of the New Deal were torn up like scraps of paper, once they were in office, Walter P. Johnson, of Montgomery county, Republican nominee for the House of Representatives in the Sixth Maryland district, broadcast last evening in an address from Baltimore.

Johnson discussed the moral standards of government and declared the New Deal is using methods "that have brought government morals to the lowest point in our recollection."

"Since I expect to be elected to represent you in Congress," Johnson declared, "I consider every word I say in this campaign as a promise to be fulfilled. For that reason, in order that I will not be misunderstood on any point, I have set down by my remarks in writing and will read them to you."

"I am talking here tonight to a group of solid, substantial people. I know you have high ideals of public service and in these few minutes I'd like to tell you something of my own ideas and ideals in that respect."

Government Sets Example

"You people who pay your bills, worship God on Sunday and try to be good citizens and neighbors every day in the week, I am sure are interested in the moral standards of government. Because government sets an example that people are quick to follow in their relations with each other."

"The New Deal administration came into office on a wave of reform and, as you know, its leaders have talked constantly of what they would do to right the wrongs of the common man and woman. They pointed to all sorts of things that they said were wrong. Some of them ARE wrong, and if we are patient and use our heads as well as our hearts we can right them."

"But while the New Dealers talked

Outlook Is Dim For Christmas Decorations

Mercantile Bureau Feels other Merchants and City Should Share Cost

Cumberland will probably have no community Christmas decorations this holiday season, as it has had during the last several years, according to reports made to chambers of commerce directors last night on behalf of the Mercantile Bureau.

The lack of funds for the decorations is the cause. For several years, up until last year, the decorations were self-sustaining in that they were provided for by funds contributed by local merchants and banking institutions.

The bureau budget this year will not permit the payment of a deficit for this purpose, and the merchants who have borne the cost heretofore do not feel like carrying the burden any longer. They feel that other merchants and the city should share in the venture.

Directors expressed the opinion that it would be deplorable not to have Christmas decorations this season as heretofore, as they have become an established institution, which has helped to draw people into the city for the holiday shopping period from the surrounding territory.

Some equipment, including floodlights and a large Santa Claus display set, are owned by the bureau and could be utilized in the decorations this year.

The Mercantile Bureau is looking to a big Halloween event, in downtown streets, however. It is co-operating with the Veterans of Foreign Wars and several meetings have been held by representatives of the veterans at which the plans were developed. A fund of $250 for prizes to be awarded callithumpian winners has already been provided.

Reason for Holiday

Kopp explained that the reason for the holiday was to give more teachers an opportunity to attend the meeting and thus avoid shifting of teachers about the schools under the former half-day setup. Heretofore between forty and fifty per cent of the county teachers attended the meeting but this year about sixty per cent of the county's teaching staff is expected to go to Baltimore, Kopp said.

The holiday will have little effect on the regular school term which has a maximum of 185 days and a minimum of 180 days.

General sessions will be conducted Friday morning and evening in the auditorium of Polytechnic Institute. The representative assembly will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the music room of Eastern high school and the final general session will get underway the same day at 10:15 a. m. in the Eastern high school auditorium. The theme of the convention will be "Social Studies in a Democracy."

Outstanding Speakers

Among the outstanding speakers on the two-day program will be Dr. Walter Mohr, social studies instructor, George School, Pa.; Mrs. Bertita Harding, novelist and lecturer, who will speak on the "South American Way"; and Wilbur F. Murra, executive secretary of the National Council for the Social Studies, Washington, D. C.

Sectional meetings will be held Friday at 3:30 p. m. Prominent speakers are scheduled to give talks on various subjects throughout the afternoon.

Miss M. Lillian Cheezum, president of the association, will preside over the general sessions.

Mt. Royal P-TA Will Meet Monday Night

The Mt. Royal P-TA Association will hold a regular meeting at the school Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting will be devoted to a conference between teachers and parents.

Kopp Expects 60 Per Cent of Teachers To Attend Baltimore Meeting

Allegany county public schools will be closed all day Friday, Oct. 25, to enable teachers to attend the seventy-third meeting of the Maryland State Teachers' association in Baltimore. Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent, announced yesterday.

The man, Floyd McAllister, of Big Pool, Md., suffered a deep laceration of the head and a possible fracture of the skull. Eight stitches were used to close the wound at Memorial hospital.
